Report Urges State To Rush Oil Work

OLSON SAYS
LOSSES RUN
IN MILLIONS

Department Urged to Take Immediate Action on Royalty Payments

With $665,826 already in the treasury from royalties collected from the Huntington Beach tidelands oil pool, the state is being advised to go into the oil business to prevent the loss of millions of dollars in oil drained from the tidelands pool.

Submitted By Olson
The advice was contained in a report filed in Sacramento by a special legislative committee. The report was submitted by Sen. Culbert Olson, Los Angeles, chairman of the special committee, and pointed out that millions of gallons of oil already have been drained from the state pools by private companies.

In pointing out that the state will lose millions of dollars unless it sponsors immediate development of the tidelands pools, the report said that private companies operating particularly in Huntington Beach will continue to drain the pools unless the state takes immediate action.

State Paid $665,826
Last year private operators, drilling from town lot sites in the Huntington Beach field, paid $665,826 in royalties to the state for oil and gas taken from the tidelands pool. This settlement did not include royalties from the Standard Oil company as the state has not yet made a settlement with that corporation. When other operators

UNION'S PEACE
OFFERS STUDIED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Shipowners today studied two peace offers from Pacific coast longshoremen, acceptance of either plan, the union said, would bring about an agreement between the two groups and end the costly maritime strike.

Conference Arranged
Developments in the 85-day-old strike found shipowners scheduling a conference with the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Water-tenders' & Wipers' association negotiating committee for further discussion of the tentative accord reached by Thomas G. Plant, shipowners' chairman, and J. E. Ferguson, union secretary.

Meanwhile shipowners were reducing in writing proposals tentatively agreed upon in negotiations held this week with the Marine Cooks & Stewards' association.

Plant Criticized
From the strikers' publicity committee came criticism of previous predictions of Plant of early settlement and of the settlement terms as stated by shipowners in newspaper advertisements.

Longshoremen informed the shipowners they would settle on either of the following terms:

Continuation of the 1934 arbitration award with increases in wages of 5 cents an hour straight time and 10 cents overtime; wage increases to checkers and preference in employment.

Alternate Proposal
An alternate proposal by the union was for continuation of the 1934 award with a 6-hour day between the hours of 8 a. m. and 3 p. m.; wages to remain at 95 cents an hour straight time and $1.40 an hour overtime, and preference of employment.

Post Office
Here To Get
Mural Soon

Plans for a mural to be hung in the Santa Ana post office as soon as the work of art is completed were revealed here today.

Artist Appointed
According to information available today the treasury department's procurement division has appointed James Redmond, Los Angeles artist, with studios at 2211-2 South Spring street, to paint the mural for the lobby of the federal building here.

Painting of the mural is a WPA project, though under supervision of the painting and sculpture section of the treasury department. The treasury department had no funds for the work, it was explained.

Redmond is at present working out a sketch for the mural which probably will be located above the door to the office of Postmaster Frank Harwood. The mural will be painted on canvas in Redmond's studio, transferred to Santa Ana and erected in the building.

Murals in Schools
Redmond won the contract award by virtue of his work for the Compton post office, and by previous murals done for the Phineas Banning High school at Wilmington and the Thomas Starr King Junior high at Los Angeles.

The theme of the mural will involve some incident of Orange county history, it was revealed.

FLOOD AREAS
PROMISED AID

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The American Red Cross placed virtually unlimited funds at disposal of its flood relief workers today after a telephonic survey of regions devastated by high waters indicated that midwestern floods are assuming proportions of a major disaster.

BY UNITED PRESS
Devastating floods swept into 11 states today, forcing upwards of 125,000 persons from their homes, isolating communities and bringing millions of dollars in damage. Eleven were known dead.

Farmers Leave Homes
From the Ohio river at Pittsburgh—which spilled over into the famous "Golden Triangle" in the business district—flood was reported over thousands of acres stretching to Cairo, where the Ohio runs into the Mississippi. Indiana and Illinois rivers flowed over. Farmers along the Mississippi to the lower delta left their homes, fearing the river would surge out and spread damage similar to that of 1926.

Most spectacular scene was at Portsmouth where officials opened sewer valves of the million-dollar flood wall, burying half the city of 43,000 population in water 20 to 10 feet deep. Greater damage would have resulted had the river poured over the top of the wall.

Residents Warned
Residents in the doomed district had received advance warnings and hurried to the hills, taking whatever household goods they could carry. Business houses

PLAN RULING TO CURB SPECULATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—New regulations designed to curb speculation on the nation's stock exchanges will be made effective by the Securities and Exchange commission within two weeks, the United Press learned today.

The projected rules would abolish "daylight" trading by requiring full margins in all transactions by members of exchanges. "Daylight" trading describes security purchases which are balanced by sales of the same security within the course of a single trading session, with very little actual money posted.

The contemplated new regulations would require "full margin" at all times on commitments by persons trading on the floor for their own accounts. This was designed to eliminate the "shoe-string" trader who operates without ever using much actual money.

FLOOD WATERS ONCE MORE PERIL PITTSBURGH

With floods raging in a dozen states, Pittsburgh fears a repetition of the 1936 deluge damage. First water has already slopped into the business district. The picture shows a flooded section on River avenue at Ninth St., with the B. & O. tracks inundated. Police stood by to evacuate residents near the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers.

SCHOOLS HERE
CLOSED AT NOON

Santa Ana city schools, with the exception of the junior college, were closed at noon today because of influenza that was reported for an absence of approximately 15 per cent of the student body.

In ordering the schools to close at noon, today, the message from the office of Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson said that the closing was for the weekend only and that all schools would re-open Monday.

An early morning checkup of absence in the schools revealed that 1125 students had not reported. Later in the morning when school nurses made their rounds more than 100 additional students were sent home because of severe colds and fever. At the high school 185 students were absent.

At the offices of the board of education it was said that darkness and smoke from heavy smudging last night also played a part in closing of the schools today.

HOPE EXPRESSED FOR STRIKE END

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Chairman J. Warren Madden of the National Labor Relations board today expressed hope the Pacific maritime strike might be speedily settled as a result of east coast developments.

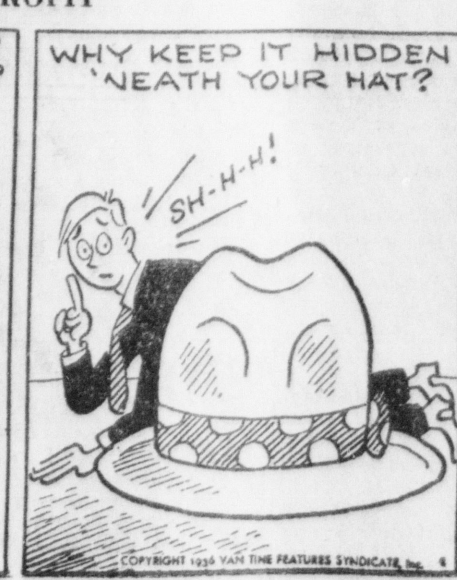

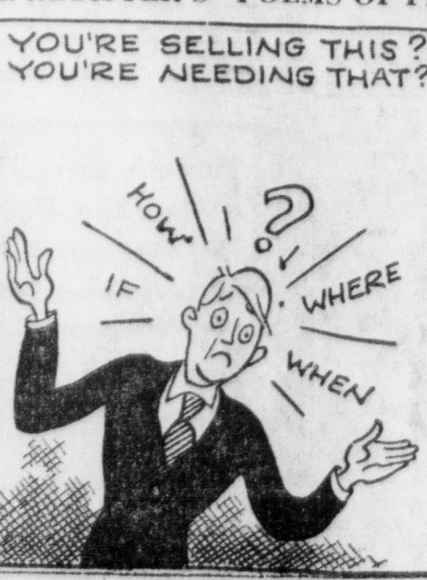

Madden based his hope on the action of striking Atlantic and Gulf seamen in New York in adopting a resolution defining proposals for calling off the east coast strike.

The resolution was read to the board as it opened hearings on a request for board intervention in the strike situation.

F. D. R. Declines to Take Action on Strikes in Automobile Plants

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—John L. Lewis today ordered his automobile strike lieutenants back to Detroit to intensify organization efforts after President Roosevelt indicated today he would not intervene in the critical General Motors situation.

Fight To Finish
Lewis ordered a "fight to the finish" on the Detroit battleground shortly after Mr. Roosevelt publicly rebuffed Lewis' request that the government aid the strikers by every "legal means."

Mr. Roosevelt, departing from usual procedure, allowed the direct quotation of his statement which was presented to reporters at a regular White House press conference.

The president's remarks depreciated the barrage of charges and counter charges by Lewis and General Motors spokesmen, saying:

Out of Order
"I think in the interest of peace there come moments when statements, conversation and headlines are not in order."

Commenting upon Mr. Roosevelt's statement, Lewis said: "I cannot undertake to interpret the president's words. He alone can define his statement. Of course, I do not believe the president intended to rebuke the working people of America who are his friends and who are only attempting to obtain rights guaranteed to them by congress in a declaration of public policy in the National Labor Relations act."

Officials Withdraw
Lewis' statement today extended his remarks of last night which were followed quickly by the withdrawal of General Motors officials headed by President Alfred P. Sloan Jr., from negotiations which were going on under direction of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins here.

He placed blame for the break-up in conversations here upon General Motors.

"Labor is on the march," Lewis said. "We are determined to fight until we get what we want."

He revealed Homer Martin, United Automobile union president, and his aides will return immediately to Detroit to intensify efforts to tie up every General Motors plant.

MAGILL NOMINATED FOR TREASURY JOB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today sent to the senate the nomination of Roswell Magill of New York to be under-secretary of treasury. Magill, former law professor at Columbia, has been associated with the treasury for some time as a tax expert.

Mr. Roosevelt nominated William P. Stuart, of Prescott, Ariz., to be collector of internal revenue for the district of Arizona; Clayton B. Vogel to be adjutant and inspector of the marine corps with the rank of brigadier-general.

TO BUILD TRANSPORTS

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Allan Lockheed, aircraft pioneer and president of the newly-formed Alcor Aircraft corporation, announced today he had leased 11,000 feet of space at Oakland airport and will soon start manufacturing transport planes there.

Barbed Wire
Used To Guard Socks

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Barbed wire enclosures have been erected at the Pan-American Airways station at Cumarebo, Venezuela, to protect the red canvas air socks.

In reporting his defense to superiors here, the agent said natives were stealing the wind gauges and sewing them together into pants.

FLOOD CONTROL
FUNDS SOUGHT

Harry Sheppard, congressman from the 19th district, including Orange county, is preparing to appear before house appropriations committee and urge the earmarking of a substantial amount of money for use this year on the Orange county flood control project.

Says Prospects Bright
Sheppard declared that he will seek sufficient funds to allow army engineers to get the project well under way before the end of the present fiscal year which starts July 1. He indicated that prospects of obtaining the funds are exceedingly bright.

In word from Washington, D. C., today it was learned that both Senator Hiram Johnson and Senator William Gibbs McAdoo have been working on the project and will continue to support the Orange county project. It was said that there is little likelihood the project will be opposed in the senate.

Indications that there would be no opposition to the project in the senate was contained in a recent report which declared:

Benefits Cited
"The benefits to be expected from the execution of this project includes the elimination of the flood hazard with its danger to life and property, with the conservation of flood waters for the benefits of agriculture and sanitation, and other benefits. On the basis of such benefits the project

BRITISH LEADER
GUEST OF F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The visit of Walter Runciman, president of the powerful British Board of Trade to the White House today threatened to become a major issue in two important administration legislative measures.

Runciman's week-end visit with Mr. Roosevelt was viewed as possibly affecting:

1. Renewal of the trade agreements act, legislative authority for the 15 reciprocal trade agreements already concluded with foreign nations and others under consideration.

2. Strengthening and extension of the present neutrality act, American relations with Great Britain, the United States' best foreign customer, and the greatest European exponent of the democratic form of government and of world peace, are closely linked with both pieces of legislation. In turn, most authorities here believe, the issues of world peace and war are closely tied up with the economic and political relations between the two nations.

Trees Covered With Ice as Result of Experiment in Grove Near Anaheim

In spite of a bitter night-long battle waged by growers of Orange county, last night's record-breaking cold wave unquestionably did considerable damage to the county's orange crop, according to Agricultural Commissioner Dixon Tubbs.

Fruit To Be Sorted
He said that while it will be impossible to make an accurate estimate, the crop suffered heavy damage. He also pointed out that because of this unquestioned damage, it will be necessary to sort all fruit before packing and shipping.

While Tubbs declined to estimate the loss from last night's cold wave that is believed to have equalled the freeze of 1913, it was indicated in some quarters that the loss may reach as high as 50 per cent of the crop, over the period of the past two weeks.

Loss Estimated
Following the first freezing weather, officials of the California Fruit Growers' exchange estimated that the loss would range from 15 to 20 per cent. Last night's drop in temperatures boosted the estimate. In many groves that had weathered the first cold wave,

PILOT BLAMES
AIR CURRENTS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The long-awaited testimony of Pilot W. W. Lewis on the cause of a Western Air Express transport crash which cost five lives today was being transmitted to the department of commerce at Washington.

Lewis, still suffering seriously from his injuries and interviewed yesterday by Maj. R. W. Schroeder at Good Samaritan hospital.

Weather Blamed
The pilot attributed his misfortune on the sudden change from clear weather to turbulent air currents as he neared his home port at Burbank.

Lewis also cited difficulty in following his instructions and ice accumulation on motors and altimeters throwing him off course. "The plane simply got away from me," he declared. "I had to fight the plane all the way in after we got into the rough air. The motors began to weaken and ice started to form on the wings."

Dropped To 3500 Feet
During his instructions and ice elements from Newhall pass, 20 miles from here, Lewis had dropped from 7000 feet in altitude to 3500 feet when he crashed.

The pilot also said he had difficulty contacting the broadcasting station at Union Air terminal which was issuing instructions to another ship and he was forced to "mark time."

The altimeter and the other instruments were not giving accurate readings," he said. "The rate of climb indicator varied between zero and 1000 and the air speed indicator was bouncing from 80 to 150 miles an hour."

Terrific Currents
While waiting for the signal from the ground station to come in, Lewis was backing "terrific" air currents.

Explaining his panicky landing on the side of the mountain, Lewis said "it was just instinct." Lewis had not been informed of five deaths as a result of the crash because physicians feared he might suffer a relapse.

SEATTLE OFFICERS
SEEKING KIDNAPER

SEATTLE, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Searching for a deserted farmhouse overlooked by state police hunting the hideout of the kidnaper-killer of Charles Mattson, 10-year-old Tacoma boy, two Seattle detectives went to Snohomish county today.

Detective Lieuts. V. M. Fisher and E. M. Schaeffer made the investigation, which Detective Lieut. Pete Olson said had "some connection" with the Mattson case.

were closed. Water lapped at second story windows. Electric, water, gas and telephone service in the flooded district was paralyzed.

The third greatest flood in history gripped Cincinnati. Roaring waters of the Ohio river reached 65 feet—16 feet above flood level—and was rising at the rate of three-fourths of a foot an hour.

Louisville was threatened with the worst flood in its history. Electric power may fall this afternoon. Wheeling, W. Va., reported thousands were leaving Wheeling Island as the water rose steadily.

Memphis Area Flooded
Evansville, Ind., was the scene of tremendous emergency measures with the wall still holding. The tri-state area around Memphis was a scene of desolation as waters spread with thousands forced from their homes.

At Kennett, Mo., war-time emergency measures were taken today to care for more than 10,000 persons driven from their homes into freezing rain by rising flood waters in Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee.

Pneumonia and influenza spread in the wake of the devastating floods; serious food and fuel shortages developed at several points; water supply was contaminated; many were still marooned without proper food and shelter.

The towns of Arbyrd, in southeast Missouri, and Lester, in northeast Arkansas, were inundated.

Towns Isolated
Cardwell and Kennett were practically isolated, and Lepanto, Ark., was in the path of a floodway that was sure to be flooded with the expected break of the Big lake—Little river—levee west of Bryantville, Ark.

A check showed at least 12,500 persons driven from their homes in the three states, with the condition steadily growing worse as a major flood threatened on the Mississippi river itself.

were compromising with the state the Standard Oil company offered to settle for approximately $200,000. The offer was refused.

Royalty payments, under terms of the compromise entered into between the state and individual operators, include 20 per cent on all gas produced from the tideland and a scale ranging from 5 to 15 per cent on oil production. This oil scale is based on the amount of production.

Based on Investigation
The report submitted by the special committee was based on an investigation which looked into slant drilling operations particularly in the Huntington Beach area. No recommendation was made as to whether the state should do its own drilling or handle the situation by means of leases on a satisfactory royalty basis.

After recommending the need of immediate legislation to provide for development of the state oil property, the report suggested that the director of finance should be empowered to acquire any real property necessary for convenient access to the holdings at Huntington Beach.

It also was recommended that: No settlements shall be made or granted any oil well operator whose well is found producing from the state's land except under such authority as shall be provided by an act of the legislature.

Payment Urged
The Department of Finance and Attorney General be required to take immediate action to require the payment from all operators of wells drilled from Upland areas that are producing or have produced from tideland area.

Prior to submission of the report, which may be followed by recommendations of other members of the committee, the assembly refused immediate approval of a resolution calling for an interim investigation of the "whole oil situation."

Meantime, scores of bills seeking to take advantage of the state's oil property in one way or another, continued to pour across the desks of both houses.

Voting is not a good old American custom. Citizens of the Greek city states, the Roman Empire, and the Germanic tribes voted long before our time.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO QUIT FISHER BODY PLANT

In the center foreground is the sound car from which orders were blared to "hold fast" until the corporation agreed to the demand. Strikers shown at the windows roared their approval of the decision and remained in the factory.

FROST CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

smudging failed to raise the grove temperatures to a sufficient degree to save the crop. In many areas the groves were totally unprepared with smudge pots. It was these areas that the loss was heaviest.

Official thermometers recorded low ranges of from 28 to 22 degrees. Unofficially, however, it was reported that the mercury dropped to as low as 20 degrees in some of the low areas.

Sees Warm Weather
Floyd D. Young, government meteorologist of the Federal Fruit Frost service at Pomona said that, beginning tonight, the weather will gradually become warmer each day until the frost danger is ended. Predictions for tonight and Saturday are: "Fair tonight and Saturday, becoming cloudy; temperature below seasonal normal, but rising slightly; frost again tonight; moderately north wind."

While growers in Orange county were battling temperatures ranging from 28 to 22 degrees the mercury dropped to from 12 to 20 degrees in Imperial valley and 17 degrees in San Bernardino. Preliminary reports from Imperial county agricultural bureau said most of the grapefruit crop was apparently wiped out as growers were not equipped to smudge.

What is believed to be one of the most unusual fruit-protection experiments ever tried in unseasonably cold weather in Orange county today was in process on the large citrus and fruit grove of George Barfoot, whose land is on Highway 101, just south of Anaheim city limits.

Covered With Ice
Giving the appearance of huge glazed spiders, the orange and avocado trees are covered with ice, both leaves and fruit having a thin coat of frozen liquid, which had been sprayed over the trees. Barfoot told all questioners that it was an experiment that would have to be watched. Meanwhile, curiosity seekers were slipping and sliding through the grove on ground that was covered with ice strong enough to hold the average man.

Barfoot pointed out that there was absolutely no way of predicting accurately what damage would be, if there would be any. He said he turned the sprinkler system last night and let it run until there was a coat of ice on the trees and ground throughout the grove.

Trees Cracked
Outside the heated areas in the Pomona district, temperatures ranged from 16 to 20 degrees, cold enough to crack the bark of trees and cause complete defoliation. Within the heated area, temperatures were raised as much as 12 degrees by the fires of thousands of smudge pots. Packing houses reported it was the most general and effective smudging in history.

The dense smoky haze from these smudge fires kept the temperature in Los Angeles up to 34, two degrees warmer than yesterday's low. Flyers reported the smoke and haze extended 5000 feet in the air. For the first time in years, the Los Angeles river froze along its banks where unofficial thermometers recorded a low of 22.

San Luis Obispo reported its all-time low record was equaled when the temperature dropped to 24 degrees. The unprecedented minimum of 17 degrees at San Bernardino was recorded at 7:45 a. m. While orchardists were still feeding smudge fires to keep off frost from orange and lemon groves. The previous record to where was 18, registered January 7, 1923. Some citrus damage is feared.

Had Coldest Day
San Diego had its third coldest day in history when the mercury plunged to 30. The weather bureau there believed damage to small crops would be heavy. Smoke from smudge fires reduced visibility to two feet at Escondido, where a low of 22 was reported.

Fruit damage in unprotected areas was reported from Riverside where a minimum of 21 was reached at 6 a. m. The mercury climbed 12 degrees in the next two hours. The Riverside-Arlington Heights Fruit exchange said it was too early to estimate the damage.

In Ventura, smudging continued all night to cope with a 23-low. Ojai in the same county reported 19 degrees and Ventura 20.

VISITS LODGE

PRESIDENT OF STATE ELKS TO PAY S. A. VISIT

Approximately 300 Elks, members of the three Orange county lodges, will meet in Santa Ana Tuesday night, when L. A. Lewis, past exalted ruler of Anaheim lodge, and president of the California Elks' association, pays his official visit to the Santa Ana lodge.

The guests will represent the Santa Ana, Anaheim and Orange Elks lodges and the Santa Ana lodge will be the host organization.

The three lodges are scheduled to hold a joint meeting at which time Lewis will be the principal speaker outlining his program for the year. Preceding this joint session Lewis will meet, at dinner, with officers of the three county lodges.

Several acts of vaudeville will be presented after the regular session and lunch will be served at the end of the program.

HUNTERS FIND RIFLED SAFE STEUBENVILLE, O. (UP)—Hunters, pausing at a camp shack, found a battered, empty safe, missing since a recent robbery here. Apparently, the criminals had carried the safe away, to open it at their leisure. They had hammered the door off and removed the contents.

The largest buffalo herd in the world is located at Wainwright, Alberta, Canada.

Court Notes

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Russell was awarded $4000 damages against Marco, Pete and Helen Anich, in a verdict returned in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court last night by a jury that heard her damage suit, based upon an automobile accident at Main and Central avenue, Newport Beach, last May 24. She sued for $27,154.

Mrs. Marie C. Braddock frequently threw things, her husband, Fred W. Braddock alleged in a divorce suit on file in superior court today. She not only threw things, she threw them at him, Braddock asserted. They married at Tecate, Mexico, in 1930, and separated at Huntington Beach last October 5.

Mrs. Loretta E. Wallace, of Anaheim, today filed suit in superior court for a divorce from Randall Wallace, charging cruelty. They married at Fullerton November 17, 1933, and separated January 21, 1936.

Joaquin Valdez, 11, of Santa Ana, asks $10,000 in a superior court suit filed against the Railway Express Company and one of its truck drivers, Leonard M. Alton, for injuries the boy received last September 25 when struck by an express truck near the Santa Fe railway station in Santa Ana.

GARDEN GROVE MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN AUTO

Charles Carleton Fulton, 41, of Flower street, Route 1, Garden Grove, was found dead in his automobile, parked inside of the home garage, yesterday afternoon, according to officials who investigated. The automobile engine had been turned on and Fulton was pronounced victim of suicide.

Deputy Coroner Bert Casteix said no inquest would follow his investigation. Fulton had been in ill health for some time. He is survived by his widow, Hazel King Fulton. Funeral arrangements are being made today at Smith and Tuthill funeral chapel, where the body was taken.

MITCHELL FUNERAL WILL BE SATURDAY

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Altamitos Friends church for Henry A. Mitchell Jr., 21, the first victim of a traffic accident in Orange county this year. The young man met death when a car he was driving collided with a car driven by Bryan Jones, 39, of Garden Grove, Wednesday night at a Garden Grove intersection.

An inquest was scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Shannon chapel, Orange. Services are to be conducted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Charles Moore, and interment will be made in the Westminster cemetery. Beside his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Mitchell, of Garden Grove, the young man is survived by a sister, Miss Virginia Mitchell, who was with him at the time of the accident and who is recovering from slight injuries.

DENIES GUILT IN BURGLARY CHARGE

Edwin Schiek, of Orange, pleaded not guilty to a charge of failure to provide for his two children, trial being set for February 3, without a jury.

Trial of Pancho Navarro, charged with a statutory offense against a 16-year-old Mexican girl December 28, was set for February 16. He pleaded not guilty.

KEN Murray SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Jan. 22.—Looks like the New Dealers will be able to eat their cake and have it too, when you read that, in order to pay their campaign debts, Jim Farley is giving a "deficit dinner" in Washington that'll cost each guest $100.... Can't you just see that menu? 26 courses! Everything from A to Z.

These Democratic banquets will be held in every state in the Union, and while most of them will be very pretentious, I suppose Maine and Vermont will serve only their usual cold-cuts.

The newspaper announcement doesn't say whether they'll have any outside talent for entertainment, or whether they'll get their laughs by having someone read aloud from the November issue of Literary Digest.

I suppose the dinner will go down in political history as "The banquet of the century-note." Any dinner at those prices demands super-service, and they'll undoubtedly get it.... I'll bet Jim Farley will even tell those boys which side their bread is buttered on.

appears worthy of consideration, and its execution should be beneficial to the orderly development of this important area."

With the army engineers scheduled to take final action on the project which they have, informally, approved, reliable sources in Washington indicated today that the water conservation works originally contemplated as a part of the program, will not be included in the report to be taken under consideration by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors.

Benefits Outlined

The engineers have pointed out that while this would not reduce the effectiveness of the project as far as flood control, and the protection of Orange county from flood damage, it would eliminate the benefits which were expected to result to agriculture through the conservation of water.

In this event the construction of any spreading works or other facilities for the conservation of water for the benefits of agriculture will be a problem for the local government to decide.

War department officials said that, in the event the conservation provisions of the project are eliminated provisions for the water conservation facilities could be included in the proposed bond issue that will be placed before the voters of Orange county at an early date for the purpose of providing the county's share of the cost of the program.

In the old days, gasoline was towed out to sea and dumped as a waste by-product of kerosene.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

Inevitably you attempt to visualize what Paradise means to your dearest one. Be content with the certainty that it must tally with what is best in nature. It can not be inferior in tone to the already known works of the Artist. Who sculpts the globes of the firmament and writes the moral law.

It is well that you do not know more about Paradise than you do. Your attention might be diverted from the important tasks which are committed to you here and now.

Rest in the assurance that whatever will give scope to the richest capacities of your beloved is now being experienced. Before long, you will be sharing in these blessed joys.

SOLONS AT SEAL BEACH ASK AID TO BUILD PIER

Starting official action to obtain the long sought new concrete pier, making recommendations designed to hasten construction of the Twelfth street grade crossing, and voting financial support to Boy Scouts, Seal Beach city council met in a long regular session last night.

Responding to the petition of a large number of property owners to seek federal money through the PWA, and to call a bond election for financing the pier project, members of the council instructed City Attorney B. B. Brown to make application immediately to the War department for permission to erect pier, and to the PWA to determine the amount of federal assistance available.

Waits For Plans

Plans and specifications, with an approximate estimate of the cost of construction will be prepared by City Engineer Victor W. Hayes, saving the city about $300. Hayes will delay work on the plans for a week until new hydrographic maps prepared by the Flood Control district, are available.

In order to complete the Twelfth street grade crossing over the Pacific Electric right of way before the permit expires in April, the city will use the full amount of accrued state gasoline tax, and apply to the Orange County Board of Supervisors for permission to use a portion of the county tax.

Boy Scouts in Seal Beach have the full backing of the city council, informal discussion revealed after, R. S. Gilman, scoutmaster, and John Burkhart, chairman of the scout committee, announced the need of $320 to meet the budget for the year. Voting $50 to the fund, Councilmen Green and Waidler stated more would be voted if the city budget would stand without violating the statute limiting expenditures.

Ask Franchise Transfer

As part of the business involved in the sale of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation to the City of Los Angeles, Bureau of Light and Power, the utility company filed with the council a request for the transfer of the franchise. The request was referred to Attorney Brown for investigation and report.

The long disputed question of who is liable for the patent license fees on special parts and processes of the new sewage disposal plant, brought F. S. Curry, the designer, San Bernardino, and H. A. Teget, contractor, Ontario, before the meeting. Contending that Curry in his recommendation of the plans stated that he did not believe the city would be required to pay the $300 fee, Councilmen Green and Waidler refused to approve demands of the engineer and contractor. The difficulty has arisen, Curry pointed out, over the use of the Imhoff process of circulating sludge. With machinery installed for the purpose, it never has been used, according to Clarence Thompson, city employee, and may not be for some time.

Must Obey Code

That property owners will be required to conform to building codes, which will be interpreted with least inconvenience to owners but still conform to health and safety requirements, developed in the refusal of the council to grant special exemption to E. E. Morris, owner of a building on Main street, from rulings made by Bernard Krenwinkel, building inspector.

Removal of the old sewage plant from land agreed to be returned to the Helman ranch in exchange for the site of the new plant, will get under way in about two weeks, according to Mayor Elmer J. Hughes, who reported that it was part of the clean-up program for which PWA funds were requested.

BUREAU OFFERS SPEAKERS FOR COUNTY CLUBS

The establishment of a speakers' bureau under the direction of Mrs. Muriel M. White, member of the Santa Ana Adult Education county has brought to Orange county a new type of service. Planned to act as a clearing-house for all church, parent-teacher, women's and men's service clubs in the community the speakers bureau has endeavored to bring a high type of educational program rather than to cater to a standard of entertainment only, said Mrs. White in reporting on the activities of the bureau to date.

During the month of October 40 engagements were filled in all parts of the county with a total attendance at the meetings of 2087. In November an additional 40 groups with an attendance of 2046 were supplied with programs. From December 1 to 18 a total of 24 meetings were church groups, 4 parent-teacher associations, 35 men's service clubs, 20 women's clubs and 20 school assemblies. During November 18 meetings were conducted by forum leaders, 27 residents of the county. In December 14 of the meetings were addressed by forum leaders and 10 by other speakers. The bureau makes no charge for its services in arranging programs and is available to any organized group calling on it.

An article concerning the speakers' bureau, which is regarded as a progressive step in adult education, will appear in the March issue of Sierra Educational News.

The list of speakers available is subject to constant revision but at the present time includes: Ray Addikson, Dr. Margaret Baker, Miss Ruth Barlett, Ted Blanding, R. W. Borst, Miss Julia N. Budlong, Mrs. Edith Cloyes, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Arthur F. Corey, S. H. Cortez, Mrs. Juanita Wright Fletcher, Wilson Fritch, Miss Lucinda Griffith, Mrs. Jeanne Ann Gaston, Dwight Hamilton, Frank A. Henderson, Donald Beach Kirby, Russell Lutes, Mrs. Evadna Kraus Perry, George Peterkin, Charles L. Ruby, Dr. E. L. Russell, H. Lynn Sheller, Ralph C. Smedley, Mrs. Mona Summers Smith, Mrs. Mabel Seed Spizzy, Mrs. Jennie Tesmann, Dr. Elizabeth Toole, Mrs. Helen Walden, Miss Lela Walker, Miss Dorothy E. Wents, Mrs. Golden Weston, Mrs. Muriel M. White, W. W. Wieman and John F. Winterbourne.

Twelve forum leaders have also been available during their residence in the county. The speakers bureau shares offices with the Orange County Public Forums in the Willard Junior High school in Santa Ana and can be reached by telephoning 3272.

BLAISDELL IS GARDEN GROVE FORUM LEADER

Meeting of Orange County Public Forums held at Garden Grove high school Thursday night was led by Allen C. Blaisdell and three students from the University of California, Jere King, Carlton Goodlett, and Masayoshi Morino, on the subject, "Race Relations in California Community Life."

Mr. King spoke on the history of and the economic factors involved in race relations. He showed how the original importation of Chinese was brought about by the activities of native Californians, who were in need of a supply of cheap labor. The root of the trouble at the present and since its beginning, he said, has been the resentment of white workers against non-Caucasians who would underbid them for wages.

Goodlett, a negro, and a graduate student in the department of psychology, found the solution of racial prejudice to lie in education for tolerance. He said that the source of these prejudices is not in instinct, but in the environment and education of the growing child.

Morino, a Japanese, who works for a higher degree in political science, dealt with the problems of social adjustment which center around the segregation of Caucasians and non-Caucasians in schools and residential districts. He pointed out that the appropriation per capita for the education of non-Caucasians is much less than the appropriation for Caucasians.

Next Thursday night's meeting of the forum at Garden Grove high school will be led by Arthur E. Corey, assistant superintendent of education in Orange county, on the subject, "Can We Afford Our Public Schools?"

ENLARGED FAIR AT CLEVELAND OPENS IN MAY

CLEVELAND, (UP)—The Great Lakes Exposition—Cleveland's huge fair—will open its gates again May 29 to run for 101 days.

With announcement that the show which drew nearly 4,000,000 visitors will be opened a second season, Cleveland became the country's first city to decide definitely on a big exposition for 1937. The 1936 event, it is estimated, put more than $30,000,000 into circulation in Cleveland. Officials believe next summer's exposition will add $40,000,000 more. Exposition backers, citing Chicago's example, believe that Clevelanders themselves will flock to the lakefront show next year in numbers that will help surpass the 1936 mark.

More Cash Needed
Last summer, the exposition made enough money to pay off everyone except the underwriters, who had put up $1,100,000. For next summer officials need $500,000 to underwrite the show. They are going ahead with plans with only $300,000 on hand at present.

W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, has been elected new president of the exposition board of trustees. Dudley S. Blossom, Cleveland philanthropist and one of Ohio's wealthiest men, will continue as general chairman. Lincoln G. Diekey, general manager, continues at the helm of the 1937 fair.

Concentration for 1937 will be on the fair's new features—the dramatization of the industrial and agricultural resources of the entire Great Lakes area.

Last summer, the emphasis was on construction. The furious speed with which the exposition was thrown together made necessary great expense and attention to physical details. Within 80 working days after the first shovel of frozen dirt was turned on what had for years been a barren city

U. S. AVIATORS QUESTIONED

Back from war service in the Spanish Loyalist army, Bert Acosta (left) and Gordon Berry, American flyers, ended in a "ground loop" when, before setting foot in New York, they were subpoenaed by a federal grand jury to explain their activities in Spain. They denied violation of United States neutrality laws or taking an oath of allegiance to a foreign power. They admitted bombing Rebel forces.

dump, the lakefront was transformed into a model of landscaping and efficient display arrangement.

"Trailer City" Planned
Exposition officials, realizing that thousands of Americans will be going about the country in trailers next summer, are planning a "trailer city" near the exposition grounds to accommodate these tourist visitors.

The show which gave the nation Toto LaVerne and her "swan dance" and drew huge crowds to its "Streets of the World" and other midway attractions will be the scene of larger and more varied amusement devices next year.

At the national convention of concessionaires in Chicago, Rufus Dawes, head of the two-year Century of Progress, told showmen their logical location next year was the Great Lakes Exposition. Among physical changes will be the placing of the orchestra shell, which during the first season was some distance from other attractions, in a setting of prominence on the lake front. The Cleveland symphony orchestra will give nightly concerts at the shell.

DEER INVADERS OHIO TOWN
CONNEAUT, O. (UP)—A bewildered deer wandered down Main street, frightened by an automobile, it dived through a show window and ran about in a store until chased out. Onlookers said it fled.

Non-Churchman Is Bible Distributor

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—G. F. Wilson, who expects to celebrate his 80th birthday in April, has distributed 20,000 Bibles during his lifetime, although he is not a clergyman or a member of any church. The Bibles he has either given away or sold at cost. He said he could quote thousands of passages from the Scriptures.

Wilson, who formerly was a traveling salesman, retired 33 years ago. Each man he meets Wilson addresses as "brother." He feels it his duty to spread the messages of the Bible, although he never took an active part in church work.

Gets Job In Jail After His Release

ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Vinko Valievich, plumber, has served one of the shortest sentences on record, federal court attaches here believe. Valievich was held without bail for 22 months on a highway robbery charge. Brought into federal court on a charge of possession of illegal liquor, he was sentenced to one day in jail. After spending five minutes in the custody of the United States marshal, he was released. Then, since he had been such a model prisoner while waiting trial, Valievich was hired as assistant plumber at the city jail.

Brain Twizzlers

A financier offered a contract to a brilliant young man to act as a combination of secretary, troubleshooter and general utility man. However, the financier had developed eccentricities and a strange thing happened. When the young man had read the contract and signed his first name he noticed nine dots below the signature line, in three rows of three each, and the financier said, "Oh, yes. I want to see you use your ingenuity. When you sign your last name don't lift the pen. Run a line down and then join the nine dots in four strokes without lifting the pen from the paper." The young man did it, can you?

Address List Of Motorists Profits State

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Pennsylvania receives extra thousands of dollars through the sale of names on motor vehicle registration and liquor licenses.

For the names of its motorists, the state was paid $16,000 by George G. Hatter, trading as the Pennsylvania Motor List Company, at the rate of $3.33 a thousand. A higher total will be reckoned, as the same firm buys, throughout the year, the names of new motorists on learner's permits at $2.35 a thousand. Since Hatter is the lowest bidder for a period stipulated in the advertisement by the state secretary of revenue when the bidding is announced, he obtains a virtual monopoly. The motor bureau will not reveal more than a few names at one time.

The liquor board, however, does not permit a monopoly, but provides a list of names or other information for a nominal fee covering the cost of tabulation. Several other companies, since the enactment of a bill in 1929 providing for the sale of motor lists, have bid on the motor lists.

Temple Meads Station at Bristol, Eng., is the largest covered freight depot in the world.

RETIRED SERGEANT, NOW 86, JOINED UP 71 YEARS AGO

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—The oldest retired Marine lives in the U. S. Naval Hospital here. He is Sgt. William Weaver, 86.

Weaver began his career with the U. S. fighting forces 71 years ago. A boy of 15, he enlisted as a drummer just before the close of the Civil War. For a dozen years he remained in the army, moving from one post to another. In 1877, Weaver decided to join the leathernecks. He remained with them until he was retired in 1906.

PASSES TO HEAVEN SOLD

JOHANNESBURG, (UP)—A widespread sale of "passes to Heaven" by European racketeers to South African natives has been discovered here. Police said Europeans sold the passes for about $3.75 each, assuring the natives that when they died they would be pinned on their chest and the keeper of the gate to Heaven would let him through.

It Seems to Me by HEYWOOD BROWN

Cable dispatches from Honolulu announce that Mrs. James R. Cromwell, who was born Doris Duke, is about to forswear society and go in for good works. Just what form her philanthropy will take the newspapers have not announced. But it is evident that Mrs. Cromwell purposes to give up the swallow and follow the squalor instead.

Whether her activities prove to be of great benefit to the community I cannot say, but she herself may make a partial escape from a life of boredom. At least, that is my notion. Never having been in society, I can hardly qualify as an expert, but I have had society people step on my toes and elbow me around at racetracks.

I went to the opening of Hialeah Park when I was in Florida, and all the headlines said the crowd was very doggy. I am sure that Mr. Joseph Widener wanted to cater to the better classes. I got into the clubhouse on a newspaper pass, and it was my misfortune to win a $2 bet on the first race. When I searched for the windows of redemption they were not to be found. Indeed, everybody looked at me askance, and finally a uniformed attendant whispered in my ear that the $2 cashiers could be found down in the cellar of the building.

DEFENDING A SMALL WAGER
Before attempting the arduous journey I sat down and wrote a little letter of apology to Mr.

Widener. I felt that he deserved an explanation. And, as a matter of fact, the humble transaction in which I engaged was wholly an accident. In the lobby of the hotel, on the previous afternoon, I ran into a crystal gazer. It takes all sorts of people to make a Miami.

"How are you, Heywood?" asked Prince Hassam. "And how is Quent Reynolds?" It seems that the Prince used to be a reporter on the City News, but he saved up his salary and bought himself a glass ball and grew himself a small black mustache. Of course, he isn't really a prince. His name is Pete.

"You may not believe in this," said Pete, "but I'm really pretty good. Try me out. Ask me a question."

"How are you?" I inquired.

Without bothering to look into the ball he replied, "I'm very well, but you don't look so hot yourself. I thought you were you have the circles under your eyes. I imagine that maybe you were over to the opening of the Royal Palm Club last night. How do they work those slot machine roulette wheels?"

I could see that the man was psychic, for, as a matter of fact, I had been at the Royal Palm Club to study the legality of the device whereby the dealer slips 50 cents in the slot before each roll of the wheel. That makes it legal in Florida, and it is still one more instance of the manner in which law can be molded to meet the necessities of mankind. Chief Justice Hughes might spend a vacation in Miami some time and learn the virtues of loose construction.

HE MUST HAVE HIS QUESTION
But Pete, the psychic, did not want to enter into any discussion of an amendment. He still insisted that I ask a question.

"Can I ask something frivolous—something that I really don't care anything about?" I inquired.

"Sure," said Prince Hassam, and he handed me a paper and pencil. I wrote, "Who will win the first race at Hialeah tomorrow?" He took the paper from my hand, and then, I suppose, he did a switch, because apparently he burned what I had written. After that Pete went into a slight trance and fixed his eyes on the glass ball. In a strange voice which he never used when he was on the City News he muttered, "I seem to see a great deal of motion. It is some kind of contest. I see the letter 'H'. Could it be Hialeah Park?"

I told him that it could be Hialeah. One didn't need to be a psychic to know that the meeting at Tropical was over.

"You have asked," said the Prince, "who will win the first race at Hialeah."

INTO A DEEPER TRANCE
I nodded, and Pete proceeded to go into a much deeper trance. He gazed into the crystal ball intently. I could see the poor fellow was in trouble. He hadn't stud-

As Doctor Visited Stricken Pope

With the serious illness of Pope Pius XI a matter of deep concern to Roman Catholics all over the world, his physician, Prof. Aminta Milani, is keeping constant watch over the aged supreme pontiff. Here the car of Prof. Milani is shown entering Vatican City, on one of the doctor's frequent calls.

"GEORG-IA!!"

Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia is a firm believer in "spare the voice and spoil the inaugural address." So the governor let go and the cameraman caught him in full swing at a high point in the speech he made before a throng in Atlanta.

led the entries, and he didn't know the names of any of the maiden two-year-olds which were slated to run. Twice he tapped his forehead, and then he said in deep chest tones, "It will be the horse least expected."

"You mean the longest shot in the race?" I asked.

Prince Hassam merely repeated, "It will be the horse least expected." And then he waved his right hand to indicate that the seance was over and that he would buy a drink.

At Hialeah the next afternoon I looked at the board which shows the odds, and three horses were quoted at 30 to 1. Which was the least expected? That was my problem. But I'm a bit of a psychic myself, and so I bought one $2 ticket on each. Septime won and paid $62. And that is why I had to disgrace Mr. Widener's swagcrowd in running around and shouting in a loud and vulgar voice, "Where are the $2 wind-downs?"

Mrs. Cromwell is quite wise in giving up society and going down in the cellar.

BRITISH TO SEEK ANTARCTIC DATA

LONDON (UP)—A band of 34 British explorers are making plans in England for the "British Antarctic Expedition, 1937," to sail from here early in March in Captain Scott's famous old ship, the Discovery.

The objective is the Antarctic territory in the Australian sector. Since it came back from the Antarctic expedition led by Sir Douglas Mawson in 1931, the Discovery has lain in East India Dock, London. It is a ship of only 736 tons, built at a cost of $260,000 specially for Captain Scott's first attempt to reach the South Pole in 1901—an objective which eventually cost him his life. The ship was reconstructed in 1925.

G. W. Walker, a young explorer who took part in the James Bay Geological Expedition to the Arctic in 1930-31, but who has never been to the Antarctic, is to lead the new expedition.

"We are trying to raise sufficient funds to purchase the Discovery," he explained, "and hope she will enable us to achieve success. We are going to operate in the Australian sector known as Princess Elizabeth and Banzare Land, and our activities will be of a geological nature."

"We hope to discover the coastline of the Antarctic which hitherto has evaded explorers who have set forth on these quests. It will be the first expedition of this kind not to use sled dogs. We have decided that they are too expensive, and that motor tractors may perform the work better. We are also taking a seaplane."

OFFER FREE BEER
SYDNEY (UP)—Sydney's fishermen are planning to retaliate against publicans here who are stimulating sales by giving away oysters, fish, and even turkey, to anyone buying a drink. The Master Fishmongers association proposes to offer free beer with meals in certain districts.

Approximately 950 nurses still drew pensions in England, because their health was ruined by active war service.

HERO'S STATUE OF COIN METAL

PARIS (UP)—A bronze statue of Pere Marquette, explorer of the Mississippi Valley and one of the heroes of early American and Canadian history, will be erected this June in his birthplace Laon, small city in northern France.

The celebration will take place on the occasion of the tri-centenary of his birth on June 1, 1637.

Pere Marquette remained in France until the age of 29. He entered the Jesuit novitiate at Nancy at 17, after which he started teaching. In 1666 he left for Canada, and since that year he belongs to American history. He was the first to explore large sections of what is now Canada and the United States.

Marquette has become a figure of national significance, having given his name to a university, a railroad and a city. One American river bears the name of Marquette as well as two counties, five towns and several villages. Dec. 4 is yearly observed as "Marquette Day" in Chicago.

Considerable research has been made by the Marquette committee as to how Marquette shall be depicted. Numerous statues named after those of Washington and Nancy (France), show him with a beard. The committee, however, has decided that these statues are historically inaccurate, and that Marquette did not wear a beard. A portrait by R. Ross, painted in 1869, and discovered in Montreal in 1899 represented him as clean shaven, will serve as model for the sculpture.

tor of the Laon statue.

The bronze for this statue will be obtained by the melting down of thousands of French five and ten centime copper coins, no longer legal tender and which have been continued by the school children of France.

SHOOT EIGHTH DEER

CONNEAUT, O. (UP)—Mrs. Owen Barton, wife of a former Conneaut resident, bagged a six-point buck deer on the opening day of the season in Pennsylvania. It was her eighth deer in nine seasons. She dropped it with one shot.

Lights of the White House gleamed brilliantly on distinguished statesmen and legal luminaries when President Roosevelt gave his annual reception for the justices of the U. S. Supreme Court. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Mrs. Hughes are shown above, smiling from the town car which took them to the reception, where they led a long line of honor guests.

earth and water from the river valley through long pipelines. The desired solids settle out to form the fill for the dam. By the end of the dredging season, 50,000,000 cubic yards, half of the estimated required fill, were in place.

Work will center on the dam itself in the next two years. Lining of almost five miles of diversion tunnels has been completed, with some work remaining to be done on control apparatus and portals. A large flood spillway will be completed this summer. About July 1, 1937, the river will be diverted through the four mile-long tunnels around the dam. Then the channel section of the dam will be closed.

BIG RESERVOIR BUILT TO TAME MISSOURI RIVER

BY SAM GILLULY
United Press Correspondent

FORT PECK, Mont., (UP)—Work on the nation's largest river control project, the Fort Peck Dam, is about half completed and army engineers believe that water may be started backing up behind its four-mile-wide barrier in 1938 to form a reservoir 180 miles long.

The gigantic New Deal project, begun in October, 1933, probably will be completed in 1939, its builders believe.

A total of $89,000,000 already has been appropriated toward its estimated construction cost of $108,600,000. The recent report of the board of army engineers recommended to the present congress that $8,706,000 be provided for current construction costs.

Because of this tremendous expenditure of federal funds, the plains country of northeastern Montana has found the Fort Peck Dam a bonanza far exceeding the boom days of gold discovery. Peak periods such as last summer when the payroll numbered 10,546 persons, involved an estimated monthly payroll of $1,000,000. Even during winter shutdowns the payroll has not fallen below 4,000 workers. These payrolls explain why department of commerce retail business surveys showed Valley County to have a 474 per cent spurt in two years.

Flood Control Secondary

Most New Deal river projects are for irrigation or power development. Not so at Fort Peck, where these objectives are only secondary. The prime purpose of the Fort Peck Dam is to improve navigation on the Missouri river, with flood control a secondary objective.

For more than a century, army engineers have wrestled with the problem of controlling the turbulent Missouri river to provide a safe and adequate channel for navigation. The great Fort Peck Dam, driven into the hills of Montana's desolate badlands, is the foundation of the present program of developing an 8 or 9 foot channel from the mouth of the Missouri near St. Louis to Sioux City, Ia. The channel already is open to Kansas City and work is progressing to the Iowa point.

The rate of flow in the Missouri river varies greatly. From the great reservoir formed by the dam, with its shoreline of 1,600 miles, water will be available for release when needed during the autumn months. The dam will store water during June "rises" when melting snow water cascades down from mountains into its twisting, picturesque basin.

Not to Affect Mississippi

Army engineers emphasize the explanation that the Fort Peck dam will have little effect on Mississippi river flood control and was not designed to keep that river in check.

Power production is possible at Fort Peck and was given consideration in the designing of the huge dam. Possibilities, however, are still rather nebulous. Studies made by the engineers show that $5,000 acres in the Missouri Valley below the dam could be irrigated by low lift pumping projects, if power were cheap enough. This power might be provided by Fort Peck.

The dam also will help control bank erosion, through which thousands of acres of fertile land are carried away each year. The domestic water supply for scores of cities and towns will be stabilized.

Much progress already has been recorded on the project, although it was necessary to spend almost a year in preliminary work before actual construction of the dam began.

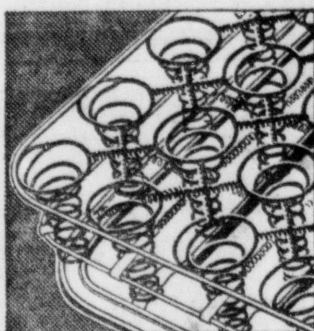

These preliminaries included building of a complete town with all utilities, which houses as many as 7,000 people; construction of a 288-mile power line from Great Falls, Mont.; building of more than 40 miles of railroad; erection of bridges and trestles surrounding the dam, and construction of large dredges and other craft.

The dam, of hydraulically earth fill, is being built with the effort of four gigantic dredges which pump

BROADCASTS OF INDIAN REGALLS LUTHERAN HOUR DAKOTA BATTLE START SUNDAY

Starting Sunday, January 24, the Don Lee network carries the Lutheran Hour program, with Doctor Walter A. Maier as the featured speaker. The program will be broadcast at 1:30 to 2:00 o'clock (east time) over Stations KHJ, Los Angeles, KGB, San Diego, KDON, Monterey, KXO, El Centro, KFRC, San Francisco, KDB, Santa Barbara, KQDM, Stockton, and KPMC, Bakersfield.

The Lutheran Hour is unique both as a religious missionary effort and a radio enterprise. No denominational lines are drawn by Doctor Maier, whose appeal is directed to all who would listen to the teachings of Christ as given in the Bible. The popularity of the program is revealed by the receipt of more than three thousand letters each week, many of these being "problem" letters asking for Doctor Maier's personal advice on spiritual matters. These problem letters come from men and women of various beliefs or without church affiliations.

The Lutheran Hour is broadcast twice each Sunday. This first broadcast is carried by Stations WAAB, Boston, WEAN, Providence, WINS, New York, WRAL, Richmond, WVA, Richmond, WCAE, Pittsburgh, WLW, Cincinnati, CKLW, Detroit-Windsor, WGAR, Cleveland and WGR, Buffalo at 1:00 p. m. Eastern Standard time. The second program, broadcast at 2:30 p. m., Central Standard time, is carried by WSM, Nashville, WISN, Milwaukee, WFL, Chicago, KSTP, St. Paul, KFAB, Lincoln, Nebraska, KFUP and KWK, St. Louis, KHJ, Los Angeles, KGB, San Diego, KDON, Monterey, KXO, El Centro, KFRC, San Francisco, KDB, Santa Barbara, KQDM, Stockton, KPMC, Bakersfield, and KFEL, Denver. The program originates from the studios of Station KFUP, on the campus of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis.

Unlike many other religious broadcasts, which receive free broadcasting time, the Lutheran Hour is paid for at full station rates. While members of the Lutheran Laymen's League, which sponsors the enterprise, support it financially, an astonishing number of letters received by the Lutheran Hour contain contributions.

Dr. Maier, a native of Boston and a graduate of Boston University and Harvard, has been noted for his outstanding ability as a public speaker since his days at Harvard, where he won the coveted Billings prize for oratory. He graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, in 1916 and has been professor of history and Old PIERRE, S. D. (UP)—The battle of Wounded Knee, last important conflict between the whites and Indians, was fought on a chill, dreary day 46 years ago.

Since then many stories have been told by survivors on both sides, some distorted, some fair.

Ed Jones, pioneer rancher, who was a government guide at the time, has offered his version of his experiences during the period of the Messiah delusion, while Peter One Skunk, now living on the Cheyenne river reservation tells how he escaped the fire of the soldiers.

Jones grew to manhood among Indian friends in the west river country, and today is a leading authority on the customs, and points of view. He relates how an Indian named Bull Eagle, dressed in a "ghost" shirt which the Indians wore with the belief it made them immune to the bullets of the whites, insisted he shoot at him. Several times Bull Eagle yelled, "shoot, friend," firm in the belief he could not be harmed while wearing the "ghost" shirt.

One Skunk, now nearly 70, was wounded in the head from the first volley from the soldiers, but was able in the confusion to escape to a nearby ravine.

A riderless horse presented his first opportunity to ride from the battleground, but a slug intended for him, felled his horse and it was not until he feigned death that he was left as a casualty by the soldiers.

During the ensuing hellam One Skunk was able to get a second horse and escape. Nearly all the other braves were killed.

PARACHUTE SLOWS SPEED OF AIRPLANE

The most literal version of air-brakes yet seen is submitted by a Japanese inventor. Designed to slow landing aircraft, the pilot merely releases a parachute attached to the tail of the plane, and the ship is braked for a stop in a quarter of the distance usually required. The idea, expected to be especially useful for landing in small fields, is being given a tryout (above) at the Susaki, Japan, airport.

Log Cabin Houses N. Y. Family of 10

CANTON, N. Y. (UP)—Too proud to seek welfare aid, a family with 10 children has been found living in a single room log-cabin deep in the hilly and sparsely settled Northern New York woods.

Straw was their bed. One little girl was clothed in a dress made from a bran sack.

Clarence Armstrong, district school superintendent, found the cabin with a loft off the beaten path.

"They are 'pioneers,'" he said. "They aren't complainers. They are making the best of their plight, these thrifty, hardworking people are too proud to ask for assistance."

Through Armstrong, a parent-teacher group arranged to provide rag dolls, candy, food and clothing for the children.

It won't be long now before the George Vanderbilts stop having such fun as that pictured, for they'll soon start on a rigorous five-month scientific expedition to the South Seas. Meanwhile they are enjoying themselves at Palm Beach as on this occasion when Mrs. Vanderbilt drew the little pig as her grab bag prize. On the South Seas expedition, they will study new specimens of fish.

'POKE GRIFTERS' MEET NEMESIS

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Capt. Joseph Cassard, often called "Camera-Eye" Cassard, known to the nation's policemen and to the underworld as one of the wisest of men in the art of catching pickpockets, was the only man to be selected from the New Orleans police department to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt in an official capacity.

Cassard was sent to Washington at the special request of Bernard W. Thompson, assistant superintendent of detectives in Washington. He wanted Cassard, he said, "to keep an eye on the crowds."

On Force 25 Years Where crowds assemble, harvests are reaped by pickpockets, or "guns," so called not because they carry pistols but because of the amazing rapidity with which they can pick a pocket. Twenty-five years on the New Orleans police department taught Cassard more tricks of the trade than most of the "guns" themselves know.

He has trapped hundreds scoring the leather, or grifting pokes; he knows how they work the racket on a short with a shade, he has seen them clip stickers, grab hoops right off fingers or thumbles out of the pocket—all of which is Greek to the average man unless he knows leather is a purse, that a poke is a pocketbook, that a short is a street car, and a shade is a newspaper, a sticker is a tie pin, a hoop a ring, and that thumbles are watches.

Knows Infamous Quartet Cassard kept close watch in Washington for the infamous quartet, "The Flying Dutchman," "The Goose," "Kansas City Baker" and "The Kid." The Kid always bumps into suckers, while his companions, the Goose and the Baker, make the snatch. Before the hue and cry is raised, the Dutchman has fled with the loot.

Cassard has arrested more petty thieves than he can remember. He has been called in to keep his eye on more conventions, congresses and fairs than he can remember. And the underworld has learned to fear those searching, ever-watchful eyes.

Girl "Salesmen" Cause Traffic Jam

BEND, Ore. (UP)—Eight dynamic girls who wanted to sell magazines for "college tuition" caused a traffic jam, near accidents and embarrassment to business men here.

The girls stopped cars in the business section of Bend, got in beside drivers and began their sales talk. An intersection became traffic-bound as a result, and officers took the girls to police headquarters, where they displeased the chief, who barred them from the city.

Because of complaints that 11-2 or 13-4 ounce "jiggers" were meted out though full price of a two-ounce drink was paid, Rep. T. J. Murphy has filed a bill in the legislature to require all glasses in which liquor is served to be marked on the outside as to their capacity.

Mishap Cited To Show Love Juliana Holds

PELLA, Ia. (UP)—Arie Schilder, now a resident of Pella, took a personal interest in the marriage of Princess Juliana of Holland because he once knocked her down with his bicycle.

The accident occurred in July, 1912, when Juliana was only 3. Schilder lived at Apeldoorn, where he was delivery boy for a meat shop. The royal family had gone to their summer place at T'loo, just adjoining Apeldoorn.

"I was riding by the palace, on my way to make a delivery," Schilder recalled.

"I guess I must have been thinking about the dangerous wild boars that Juliana's father kept on the estate for hunting, because I failed to notice a little girl playing with two tame goats in the road."

"When I saw her, I tried to stop, but my bicycle struck her and knocked her down."

"Two nurses came running from the palace, followed by soldiers and bodyguards. Little Juliana was crying, but it was found she was uninjured except for a small cut on her knee."

"The guards surrounded me and I thought sure I would be taken to prison. But they finally let me go."

Schilder said that Juliana was so adored by the Dutch population that as soon as word of the accident reached town his friends wouldn't speak to him for days.

King without a country by Robert Bruce

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PAUL I, King of Northumbria, becomes private citizen PAUL FERROE when he surrenders his throne and marries ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress.

But Paul and Ardath, after a few weeks, do not find the freedom they seek; the eyes of the world pry in on them the COUNTESS DI MARCO and her gay crowd at the Bay St. Francis press pretty vacuous. So Paul takes the advice of his old tutor, DR. SONDERG, now a famed archaeologist, and leaves his villa. He and Ardath tour Europe and in Paris Paul, resenting a slur of a "French columnist" about Ardath, knocks the writer down. Stain No. 1 is left on the ex-king.

As time goes on Paul becomes increasingly restless. He suggests settling on a ranch in Canada, in the Argentine. In the United States, Ardath begins to fear lest Paul become bored with her. He swears his love, yet the shadow of the lost throne seems always to pursue them.

Then one day Paul buys a sailing ship, thinking this is the one savior in his new life. He needs it as he buys it, he realizes that his hard-bought freedom is a thing pretty close to boredom after all.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VIII

PAUL was not long in discovering that whatever yachting he did on the waters of Bay St. Francis he would do alone.

Ardath received the news of his purchase of the sloop with a murmured, "Oh, darling, how nice!" and she dutifully made a tour of inspection with him, exclaiming prettily over the little boat's compact and robust beauty; but she very quickly made it clear that she was content to admire the craft from a safe and stable vantage point on the shore.

He himself was as delighted with the boat as he had expected to be. Voluble Jonas Coffin had not overstated its qualities; it was sturdy and rugged, it showed a neat turn of speed, and it rode the waves with a light buoyancy that spoke well of its qualities as a deep sea cruiser. True to his promise, Paul renamed it "Irene," with a smile for the quaint New Englander from whom he had bought it.

And he found, as the weeks passed, that the boat was not only a diversion but a place of refuge.

THE Countess di Marco and Reggie Van Twyne seemed to be underfoot constantly. He and Ardath would be finishing breakfast on the balcony; a motor would hum in the drive, they would hear footsteps on the gravel, and there would be the countess' voice, inexpressibly gay and cheerful—"Hello, darlings, are you up?"

Or if the countess failed to show up, Reggie was sure to appear. He would saunter up the lawn from the beach, grinning and impudently sure of his welcome, with his weary, old-young face looking like the face of a depraved cherub; he would say, airily, "Hello, soaks," and sprawl on the grass beside them; and then, before he quite knew how it had happened, Paul would find that he and Ardath had hurried upstairs to change their clothes for a motor trip to Juan les Pins or some place.

"Aren't we," he asked Ardath one afternoon, as they emerged from their dip in the sea and made their way to the villa, "aren't we seeing just a little more than we really need to of these people?"

"Dearest, need we go all over that again?" she asked wearily. "We can't vegetate here in solitude, you know. And these people are nice. You used to like them . . . back in Northumbria."

HE had, indeed, Paul reflected. The contrast which they gave to the unending stuffiness of palace life had seemed infinitely refreshing. But now . . .

"I know," he said. "And yet—must we see them all the time?"

She removed her bathing cap and inspected her coiffure carefully.

"After all," she said, "there's no harm in these people. Is it such a crime to get a little pleasure in life? Is it wrong to be light-hearted?"

Paul frowned thoughtfully. "There is harm in some of them," he said. "Reggie Van Twyne's little excursion to that waterfront dive in Marseilles last week wasn't exactly the essence of childish innocence. And those two ballet dancers the countess has—"

"Oh," she cried angrily, "can't we be a little broadminded?"

And so it went; an argument that hung on, like a sullen thunder cloud that will not break, to darken all the rest of the day for them.

IT was about this time that Paul fell into the habit of spending a night on his sloop now and then. The first time he did it followed a more than ordinarily heated spat with Ardath; sulkily, he collected sleeping garments and toilet articles and went down to the snug little cabin of the Irene. He awoke the next morning, feeling unaccountably free and light-hearted.

He tried that remedy rather often, in succeeding weeks. Ardath seemed puzzled, at first, but she never uttered a word of protest. It was after one of these nights on the Irene that Paul unintentionally brought about one of their sharpest quarrels.

The morning was bright and fresh. His body was tingling from his plunge in the bay; and he strode up to the villa whistling cheerfully, feeling that life was simple, after all. He went to Ardath's bedroom. She was propped

ROYAL LOVE STORMS ARE ENUMERATED

BY F. C. M. JAHN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
VIENNA.—(UP)—A royal love affair, recalled by the romance of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, ended in woe to Austria's imperial family 47 years ago.

Austrians recall the gloomy "tragedy of Mayerling" in which the only son of Emperor Francis Joseph and his lover, beautiful Baroness Mary Vetsera, found a tragic end.

On the morning of Jan. 21, 1889, the bodies of Crown Prince Rudolf, 41-year-old heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and of his young black-haired sweetheart, with shot wounds in the head, were found in the sleeping room of the prince's hunting lodge at Mayerling, 25 miles from Vienna.

The night before, the couple had held a gay banquet there with a number of young aristocrats, close friends of the archduke. When the party broke up late in the night, none of the guests suspected that they had attended a farewell-for-ever celebration.

Buried With Royal Honors

Rudolf's body was taken to the imperial palace in Vienna and then buried with royal honors in the vault of the Capucines' church, the last resting place of the Hapsburg family, while the unfortunate girl was interred without ceremony at night in a village cemetery.

Strictest secrecy was imposed by the emperor upon all persons connected with the drama, while the official version was that the archduke and the baroness had fallen victims to an accident.

The truth, however, soon was found out, but as all involved persons faithfully kept the secret, details of the tragedy remained a mystery until last year, when the recollections of the Crown Prince's widow which contained a full account of his affair.

The prince, first shot the baroness and then himself.

Rudolf Married in 1881
Since 1881, Rudolf had been married to Princess Stephanie, daughter of King Leopold II of Belgium. It had not been a love match, but a marriage for state reasons, arranged by the two governments.

Virtually from the first day, the union had been an unhappy one, but Emperor Francis Joseph, for dynastic as well as religious reasons, would never have consented to a divorce.

Eleven years after her first husband's tragic death, Stephanie married a Hungarian nobleman, Count Elemer Lonyay.

Upon the disappearance of the Crown Prince Rudolf, the emperor's distant nephew, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, became heir to the throne. He contracted a morganatic marriage with Countess Sofia Chotek, whose family belonged to the minor Czech gentry.

The archduke fell in love with Sofia at first sight when he met her at the court of his aunt, the empress, where the young Czech was maid of honor.

Morganatic Tie Approved
With great tenacity and with the help of Empress Elizabeth, who liked the soft, quiet, black-eyed maid, Francis Ferdinand overcame the resistance of his imperial uncle to a morganatic marriage.

The wedding took place in 1900, and never a cloud threw a shadow upon the couple's marital happiness until the fatal June 28, 1914, when both of them, while inspecting the garrison of Sarajevo, fell victims to Gavrillo Princip's shots which caused the World War.

Like Rudolf, Francis Ferdinand was given his last resting place in the Capucines' vault, while his Consort, because legally not a member of the imperial family, was buried in the cemetery of a monastery on the Danube.

This arrangement was ordered by the old emperor, who was implacable in etiquette and contrary to the archduke's wish.

The children of the couple are the Duke and the Princess of Hohenberg who, naturally, have no right of succession to the throne.

Hapsburg History Traced
Mesalliances and morganatic marriages have been frequent occurrences in the history of the Hapsburg family.

As far back as in the first half of the 16th century, Ferdinand, Duke of Tyrol, third son of Emperor's mightiest monarch, Charles V, in whose huge empire the "sun never set," married a commoner, Philippine Welser, daughter of a rich Augsburg merchant.

Welser probably was the wealthiest man of his time; his properties included the vast stretches of land in South America which today form the Venezuelan republic.

The morganatic marriage be-

A Ship Gets a Ride—on a Ship

Ocean-going vessels carry some queer freight, but it remained for the Bel Pamela to carry one of the most unusual of all cargoes—another ship. Here the Bel Pamela is shown, listing heavily, as a 120-ton lightship was swung aboard at Woolwich, Eng., to be transported to India. The lightship was built in England for the Indian government and will be placed in service at Rangoon.

High Tribute Paid Retiring Tugwell

One of the greatest tributes ever paid a retiring government official was that tendered Rex Tugwell, resigned resettlement administrator, at a farewell dinner in a Washington hotel. Nearly all the higher New Deal leaders were present. Shown here at the affair, left to right, are Tugwell; his successor, W. W. Alexander; and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

tween Ferdinand and Philippine was a happy one.

The couple invested Philippine's immense dowry in the construction of beautiful buildings and in the bringing together of a matchless collection of arms which, incidentally, later furnished the main stock of the world's most famous armories, that of the Madrid Prado and of the Vienna Hofburg collection.

Archduke Wedded Commoner
Another famous romance with the happy end of a morganatic marriage occurred in the first part of last century. Archduke John, brother of Emperor Francis I and uncle of Marie Louise, Napoleon's second consort, fell in love with and married Anna Plochl, the postmaster's daughter in the village of St. Wolfgang.

The couple lived happily in Graz where they bequeathed a fine museum, the Johanneum, to the city. Among unhappy Hapsburg romances of the last decades were the mesalliance of Francis Joseph's cousin, Archduke Leopold, who, after resigning from the imperial family, assumed the name of "Leopold Wolfing" and married Wilhelmina Adamovitch, daughter of a small Moravian shopkeeper, only to be divorced from her a few years later, and the affair of his sister, Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, who, after eloping with Giron, French teacher of her children, married the Italian composer, Totelli.

Both Died Penniless

Both Leopold and Louise died in extreme poverty.

Another love romance which ended in bloody drama marked the beginning of the present dynasty in Yugoslavia.

King Alexander Obrenovitch of Serbia fell in love with Draga Mashin, wife of an officer in the Serbian army and, after she had obtained a divorce, made her his queen.

Morals, prevailing at the court when Draga was the country's "first lady," however, soon so disgusted the army that a conspiracy was formed among the officers to put an end to the dynasty.

On a dark spring night, 1903, the conspirators entered the "Konak," the royal palace, killed both the king and queen by revolver shots and threw their bodies from the window. Thereupon parliament elected Peter Karagorgevitch, grandfather of the present king, an elderly gentleman who had led a retired emigrant's life in Geneva, to the Serbian throne. A number of years passed before Great Britain recognized the new government.

LOVELAND, Colo. (UP)—Two men of Loveland were fined $5 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail on traffic charges after they had thrown a bucketful of water on the car of a courtesy patrolman as they passed him on the highway.

GRABS IMPERIL FRENCH FISHING

PARIS (UP)—French fishermen are worrying about the danger to their industry provided by an imported scourge—crabs.

The threat is part of the yellow peril, for the particular crabs in question came from China—probably, it is assumed, clinging to the hulls of ships, which transferred them from Asiatic to European waters.

France has its own crabs, of course (many varieties of them) but they have grown up with the country, fit neatly into the biological pattern of the region, and fail to disturb the balance of marine life.

The Chinese crabs are crustaceans of another kind. To begin with, they are tremendously voracious. And to continue with, their transplantation to fresh waters (fresh salt waters) seems to have given them a new lease on life, and they are multiplying with great rapidity, so that while the first appearance of the Chinese crab was noted in 1912 in the Webster basin, the whole German coast is now swarming with them, and they are beginning to be common along the French and English coasts in the Channel, much richer in fish than the colder waters off Germany.

The Chinese crabs follow upon American shrimps, which were quite as unwelcome to French fishermen.

In neither case do the immigrants eat fish. They eat, however, the same things the fish eat, and as they seem to have more voracious appetites and to be equipped better for getting first chance at whatever is offered, their appearance is immediately signaled by a drop in the fish population.

French fishermen, of course, have one recourse. They can give up fishing and turn to crabbing.

Clinic Devoted To Eliminating Emotional Ills

BOSTON (UP)—A clinic for curing emotional ill has been opened at the Boston dispensary. All patients are treated in a group once a week by Dr. Joseph H. Pratt, professor of clinical medicine at Tufts college, and assisting doctors and social workers. Dr. Pratt gives his "Thought control class" mental treatment, that is suggestion and re-education as a remedy to dispel pains and ills caused by wrong thinking. The happier emotions, like joy, help to produce a healthier state while fear, anger and sorrow make for poor health, Dr. Pratt says. Habit formation is the basis of character, the physician says. Bad habits in the emotional domain cause common disorders of personality known as hysteria and neurasthenia.

"The outward expression of emotional reactions, the result of bad habits of feeling, often resembles that produced by organic disease. Pain anywhere, including the teeth, may be caused by hysteria. After new habits of thoughts are formed, the patient usually is quickly cured."

EVERYBODY'S A BALL FAN BUT THOSE WHO LIVE BY GAME

Everybody's a baseball fan except those who live by the game. Of course, there are exceptions. No line of work gets less time and attention from the profession than the diamond dodger.

Outside of Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals and a handful of others, the only persons who seem actually concerned are baseball writers and the customers. They have devoted years to worrying about somebody else's business.

From Commissioner Landis on down the line, those supposed to be part and parcel of baseball have in the winter, scribbles themselves ragged trying to dig up sufficient fuel for the hot stove league. Things have become so bad this off-season that wordy series are being written about humble groundkeepers.

There was a time when baseball was not as flourishing as it is at present, that moguls and managers mingled with the trade in order to talk the game up to an exploitation pitch. That was when the hot stove league really was hot. The old indoor circuit has lost much of its glow, whether the moguls or the managers care. The only ones vitally interested in it nowadays are old line baseball writers.

There is too much else to see and discuss. Winter racing has exceeded its sponsors' wildest dreams. Hockey is a major sport. Basketball rapidly is assuming big league proportions. Golden Gloves tournaments stimulate boxing. Bowling monopolizes sports page space, and whatnot.

INTERFERES WITH BRIDGE

Even when you can find them, baseball officials have little to say about their vacation. See Judge Landis and you wind up with an excellent fishing or golf story or an account of a trip to Arizona. Quoted about night ball, Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland club, said that he was opposed because it would tear him away from bridge.

Managers no longer stick around to mingle with and play up to the paying guests in cities where they run the works.

Only five of the 16 major league clubs reside in the burbs where they earn their livelihood. For instance, if a New York newspaperman wants to see Joe McCarthy of the Yankees, he has to shuffle off to Buffalo. When the season is ended, Bill Terry, of the Giants, can't seem to get to Memphis fast enough. Charley Grimm talks about the Chicago Cubs from St. Louis. Mo. Jimmy Dykes gives the lowdown on the Chicago White Sox from Philadelphia. "Pie" Traynor of Pittsburgh and Charley Dresen of Cincinnati can be located somewhere in Indiana, if anybody tries hard enough.

Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox divides his time between Washington and San Francisco. Bill McKechnie of the Boston Braves hides out at Wilkesburg, Pa. Frank Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals is a resident of New Rochelle, N. Y. The wandering Mickey Cochrane seldom gives Detroit a tumble when the Tigers are not there.

The Brooklyn club finally got its field marshal as far east as a Missouri farm, which is where Burt Grimes hangs out. Telephone rates at least are cheaper than when it was necessary to call Casey Stengel at Glendale.

One would believe that the owners at least would insist upon their head men drumming up a bit of trade by being something more than visitors during the season. John McGraw helped to build the Giants and to surround them with glamour by being a part of Broadway.

TIGERS SORRY NOW
Perhaps the magnates want managers to be strong silent men. There has been evidence of this in connection with players. The Cardinal management attempted to gag "Dizzy" Dean when he was doing a swell job of selling his goods. Bill Terry said that "Lefty" O'Doul talked too much.

Most of the noble athletes obviously are not interested in the world series, unless they are participants, for mighty few of them attend. The big bosses and some managers and players have been cold toward the all-star game, the racket's best advertisement and a show staged for the players' own charity.

It's like landing a large leaping tuna with a light rod to get the average player to attend a dinner arranged for him by admirers. There was the case in Detroit last summer when only a handful of Tigers put in appearance. You can imagine the chagrin of those who didn't have the time or inclination when they discovered that each of those who did attend returned with a new automobile. Maybe they'll drop in next time, if any.

Just now, expensive diamond luminaries are more concerned with their annual golf tournament at Sarasota, Jan. 21-24, than they are about promoting their occupation. Golf, hunting, fishing—anything but baseball.

It must have been Abner Doubleday who tagged it the national pastime.

Herbert Hoover at Alhambra, Long Beach at San Diego.

Against the Woodrow Wilson team, Santa Ana high school winds up another disastrous season of basketball in the Coast Preparatory league tonight.

Meeting at 8 o'clock, after a Class B engagement, at 7, the Saints and Bruins fight it out for the cellar championship. Santa Ana has yet to win a game; Wilson has taken only one in four starts.

Coach "Pinky" Greene is making two changes in the Saint lineup. Larry Tway replaces Mitsuo Nitta at forward and Melvin Barron will jump center instead of Jim Johnson. Milton Smith, first string center, is still out with a hip injury sustained in the Long Beach battle ten days ago. Captain Sam Lockhart and Ole Kadowaki will be at guard, with Bill Musick scheduled to replace Kadowaki by half-time.

The Coast league championship will be decided, as usual, when Long Beach Poly and San Diego tangle in San Diego. Long Beach is undefeated but San Diego can capture a clean cut title by turning back the Jackrabbits.

FOUR NEW STARTERS IN DON LINEUP

Santa Ana's thrice - defeated Dons will meet Doug Smythe's San Bernardino Indians here tomorrow night instead of tonight, as previously announced.

The Dons will be completely reorganized for their conference clash with the Indians. Only Harry Stanley, Santa Ana's sharpshooter, will retain his regular berth in the revamped quintet.

In a last practice session at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, Beatty placed "Tay" Riggs and Don Randall at forward berths, Stanley at center and Hal Eastman and Bill Semminger at the guard posts. Coach Blanchard Beatty intimated that this new quintet would start against the Indians.

MYREHN FIVE WINS SECOND-HALF TITLE

The Myrehn Brothers' basketball team of Costa Mesa won undisputed possession of the Newport Harbor Community Basketball league championship last night by defeating the Estus Hardware quintet of Newport Beach, 18 to 13. Pinkley's Drugs of Costa Mesa was runner-up for the second half, by defeating the Balboa Pharmacy, 20 to 14.

The Foodbasket five, winners of the first round of competition, slumped off, finishing in a triple tie with the Community church of Costa Mesa and Estus Hardware. The third and final round of the Community Basketball league is scheduled to begin week after next.

The two winners of the first and second rounds, the Foodbasket and the Myrehn Bros., will meet in a post-season game, to see which will meet the winner of the third round for the grand championship and the silver cup.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

DOTS AND DASHES AND ONE OR TWO FLASHES

Want the winnash of the Santa Ana Handicap? It's Whopper, if Collyer's Eye, famed turf service, has properly rated the big race.

Collyer's Eye, each month prepares a ranking list of all horses running on U. S. tracks. To determine how they would fare against each other, you subtract the poundage each carries on that given date—this time on Feb. 27.

According to this method, Whopper has 484 points. (Top Row which has been scratched, would have rated 489). Rosemont, Time Supply and King Saxon are listed at 478. Firehorn gets 476, Special Agent 475, Boxhorn 471.

Other leaders: Indian Broom, 463; Giant Killer, 468; Jabot, 467; Boilemaker, 466; Mr. Bones, 464; Stand Pat, 462; Seabiscuit, 461; Delphinium, 457; Bright Plumage, 456; Red Rain, 452; Goldeneye, 449; Accolade, 448; Infantry, 447; Marv, 445; Sangreal, 442; Sir Emerson, 441; Azucar, 439; Wild Turkey, 437.

Track and field observers at Santa Ana junior college believe Dick Tauber, rangy football player from Kansas, will be the big man of the weight circles for the Dons' track team. Tauber, now up to 205 pounds, shot the 16-pound shot better than 40 feet the other day, the first time he ever tried the event. Coach Bill Cook says Tauber will do 45 when he irons out a few kinks in his form.

The Broadway Clowns must not be such clowns at that. The barnstorming Negroes took a fall out of Fullerton's high-falutin' basketball team this week. The Clowns are tentatively dated to play Santa Ana Jaycee.

Tonight's Games
Brea-Olinda at Laguna Beach; Valencia at San Juan Capistrano; Anaheim at Tustin (exhibition).

Light will be shed on the Orange league's Minor division basketball brawl tonight when San Juan Capistrano, shadowing the highly favored Tustin Farmers, takes on Valencia at San Juan Capistrano.

Day before yesterday Tustin turned back Valencia with surprising ease, 46-25, although some of the Valentines were said to be weary from a smudge pot vigil against Jack Frost. So Tustin is expected to be heavily favored next Friday (when it plays Capistrano) unless Gil Strother's Cougars flash approximate scoring form against the Placentia team.

Playing for a mathematical chance to stay in the Minor league race, Coach Stan Gould's Brea-Olinda Wildcats travel to Laguna Beach to trade shots with the two-debated Artists.

Both teams lost their league opener against San Juan Capistrano with Brea being nipped by five points and Laguna losing by nine. The favored 'Cats also must defeat Valencia and Tustin to tie for first place—an assignment that will be tough to complete with Bill Cole's classy Farmers blocking the way.

McRae and Neja Lead Conference Basket Shooters

Elwyn McRae of Pomona, Jaycee is pacing Eastern conference sharpshooters going into the fifth game of the double round schedule. McRae has hit the lace for 44 points and leads Ted Neja of Fullerton by 12 points. Neja has 32 by his credit. Harry Stanley is the only Santa Ana in the first ten. The leaders:

'STIMULATION IMPOSSIBLE' SAYS CHEMIST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Charges that Proclivity showed signs of stimulation following a New Year's Day race at Santa Anita track were hit today in a report by a world-famous chemist.

Dr. A. O. Beckman, professor of chemistry at California Institute of Technology, declared that from evidence obtained by the chemist for the racetrack he found that strychnine stimulation was impossible.

The famous chemist, retained by Norman Church, owner of the horse, declared that the report of S. W. Green, track chemist, indicated a lack of crystals in the saliva taken from Proclivity after the race.

Dr. Beckman said that if no crystals were found that was positive proof strychnine had not been administered.

A color test applied by the track chemist after he failed to produce crystals might have resulted if the horse ate Jasmine, a common plant in Southern California fields, he said, in his report filed with track stewards.

Church's horses have been barred at the track since last Saturday when the board of stewards first reported finding the alkaloid reaction and expressed the belief the horse had been stimulated.

His trainer, E. L. Fitzgerald, was suspended temporarily until a decision in the case was reached. Church had been informed he could race his stable if he obtained another trainer temporarily, but he refused.

RAMAGE, KRANZ IN HOLLYWOOD FIGHT

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Continuing his campaign for heavyweight honors, Leo Ramage of San Diego tonight clashes with Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., steel worker, in the 10-round main event at Legion stadium.

Although Ramage was considered the better boxer, Kranz has been touted as virtually "knockout proof," having lasted 10 rounds with Joe Louis.

The Advent Christian basketball team narrowly averted being upset by the First Baptists, 26 to 23, when they clinched first-half of the Santa Ana Church league last night.

Holding a 14 to 7 first-half lead, the Baptists dissipated their chance to defeat the Christians for the first time this season.

LeRoy (Chub) Sears, guard, paced the Advent Christians to their victory with 11 points. Padias contributed six points in the final rally.

Eddie Carnett, Ponca City pitcher, played for the Baptists, scoring 6 points from a forward berth. In the second game the Church of the Brethren made short order of the Midway Nazarenes, 72 to 3, with Ed Teter, a guard, scoring 23 of the winners' points.

Bible, above, whose 20-year coaching record is one of the finest in football, was en route to Lincoln today to tender his resignation at the University of Nebraska and accept a new post as athletic director and football coach at the University of Texas. The new job reportedly will pay Bible $18,000 a year for 10 years.

TROJAN-BRUIN CAGERS CLASH

Radio KEHE (770 kilocycles) will broadcast tonight's basketball game between U.S.C. and U.C.L.A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—The League - leading University of Southern California basketball team clashes with U.C.L.A. tonight at Pan-Pacific auditorium.

Both teams were weakened by illness of players but the Trojans were favored to repeat their victory of two weeks ago when they defeated the Bruins, 41 to 31.

The Bruins have not won a basketball game from S.C. since 1932. Freshmen quintets of the two schools clash in a preliminary game.

INDIANS MEET BEARS
BERKELEY, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Stanford's basketball team, coast champions last year, tonight meets the University of California Bears here in the first game of the annual series between the two San Francisco area universities.

The Stanford five, led by Angelo (Hank) Luisetti, hopes to take the game. Last year, when Stanford captured the title, the Bears and Cards divided a four-game series.

California holds 40 victories to 8 for Stanford in the series over the 15 years of play. The game will be played in California gymnasium, which holds 7,500 spectators. Every seat will be filled.

Paul Dean Signs Same Day Stork Enlarges Family

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Paul Dean not only had his name on the dotted line of a new contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today, but also was the proud father of a 9-pound boy.

The son's name is Paul Jerome Dean. The middle name of the true Christian name of his Uncle "Dizzy" elder member of the Cardinals' brother act in the pitching business.

Branch Rickey, general manager and vice president of the Cardinals, arrived yesterday when Paul was beaming with pride and a new sense of responsibility to his family. The contract was an easy matter. Paul seemed more anxious than Rickey to sign.

Neither Paul nor Rickey would name the salary figure. Both professed satisfaction with the agreement.

What about Uncle "Dizzy"? Rickey shrugged.

"He wanted $100,000 30 days ago. Ten days later he cut his figure to $50,000. Maybe we should wait 20 days more."

RENT SAVES BROWNS
The St. Louis Browns would have a hard time getting by if the Cardinals owned their own playing field. The National league team pays the American club an annual rental of $35,000, and that amount has been one reason why the Browns have remained in the league the last few years.

DISCUSSION BY PRINCIPALS IS REVEALED HERE
If the Southern California C. I. F. refuses Santa Ana high school permission to transfer from the Coast to the Citrus Belt league, the Saints may find the bluebird of happiness winging right here at home next fall.

The Register learned today that the Orange County Principals' association this week informally discussed the possibility of inviting both Santa Ana and Fullerton into an enlarged Orange league.

J. W. Means of Tustin, a past president of the C. I. F., brought up the proposal merely, he explained, to obtain a cross-section of official opinion.

"It is and always has been my personal belief that the place for Santa Ana and Fullerton is the Orange league," said Principal Means. "They are geographically and numerically suited for this conference. Naturally some changes would be necessary in the present set-up, but I feel this could be done."

The idea would be for Santa Ana and Fullerton to join the major division of the Orange league with Orange, Anaheim, Huntington Beach and Newport Harbor, making up a tightly knit six-school group. Garden Grove, now a member of the Major division, would drop back to the Minor with Tustin, Valencia, Brea-Olinda, San Juan Capistrano and Laguna Beach.

"It is food for thought at least," said Means.

Santa Ana officials were more or less noncommittal.

Coach Bill Foote said it might be an "out" if Santa Ana fails to land in the Citrus Belt league.

"We certainly would be interested in such a set-up in that case, but I feel such a league could be made stronger if Whittier were to join Santa Ana and Fullerton in the Major division."

WOOLEN MILLS TILT IN L. A. CANCELLED

Illness forced the Santa Ana Woolen Mills basketball team to postpone its Metropolitan association contest with the Los Angeles Surveyors last night. This game will be played later this season.

The Loomers resume action at Whittier Monday night when they play the Junior Chamber of Commerce quintet, which they defeated in a practice game early this season.

"Most of our players were half sick last night," Manager Quentin Matzen explained. "We were in no condition to play so we called it off."

SOUTHERN QUINTETS OPEN RACE TONIGHT

Southern California conference basketball teams plunge into their annual conference race tonight and tomorrow with six games.

Santa Barbara State collides with Occidental in the first of the double headers at the Oxy court tonight.

San Diego State invades Whittier for games tonight and tomorrow. Hometown rivalry between LA Verne and Redlands is resumed tonight at LA Verne and continues tomorrow night at Redlands.

RENT SAVES BROWNS
The St. Louis Browns would have a hard time getting by if the Cardinals owned their own playing field. The National league team pays the American club an annual rental of $35,000, and that amount has been one reason why the Browns have remained in the league the last few years.

Tibbett To Sing Opera

"The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here."

By HOMER CANFIELD

Hollywood, Jan. 22.—

WHY ISN'T LAWRENCE TIB-

once, and I haven't known why.

Unless too much money was asked.

Or he just wanted a rest

Or was too busy

Anyone of the

From the stage of the Metro-

CANADA PLANS NEW ATTACKS ON COMMUNISM

BY ALEX JANUSITIS

United Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA, Ont., (UP)—The Canadian government is adopting a new line of attack on the so-called "Red Menace."

Government leaders revealed during a series of conferences recently with delegates representing powerful labor organizations in the country that the Administration was planning to combat Communism not by legislative action but by creating work and increasing the health, happiness and prosperity of the people.

The labor delegates, representing the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada, the Trades and Labor Congress, and the all-Canadian Congress of Labor, appeared before the Cabinet in an annual pre-Parliament opening meeting to exchange views with the government and recommend legislation to improve the working and living conditions of the workers.

The recommendations included requests that Parliament should introduce legislation to bar Communists from Canada, launch public works and reforestation to combat unemployment, and establish a 30-hour work week without lowering wages, jobs.

SLUM REMOVAL BY STATE ASKED

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—The problem of adequate housing and slum clearance in New York state has been directed to the attention of the 1937 Legislature in an effort to provide low-income families with sanitary homes at reasonably low rents.

Leading the drive to wipe out slum conditions, most severe in metropolitan New York, Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat is sponsoring a bill calling upon the state to issue housing bonds up to $100,000,000 for refunding to municipal housing authorities for slum clearance under the supervision of the State Housing Board.

The plan is to obtain the loans by mortgage on the projects, the loans to be paid off out of revenues of the project at a rate which will enable the state to meet interest and amortization on its housing bonds without recourse to taxation.

Moffat's state slum clearance bill, however, is expected to meet opposition in certain quarters where interpretations of the Constitution assert no loans can be made by the state to municipal housing authorities.

Moffat and other colleagues challenge the interpretation, and have suggested a court test. He proposes a constitutional amendment if the court's decision is not favorable.

Under the bill the maximum average rent per room per month would be $8.92; the maximum family income of eligible tenants, $2,000 per year, and the maximum average permitted income of all eligible families in any one project, $1500.

The bill holds that without federal aid, housing renting slightly above $8 per room per month can be erected. With federal aid, the rent can be less than $7. The housing would accommodate families having incomes ranging from $600 to $1,500 a year.

In support of his bill, Moffat foresees stimulated employment accompanied by a revival of the building trades. The safety, the welfare, the happiness of thousands are involved, he says, adding that "there is a direct connection between such housing and slum clearance and public health and the war against crime."

To expedite action, Moffat emphasizes that his bill is in "no sense" a partisan measure.

The rent figures offered by Moffat assume a land cost of $3 per square foot, six-story elevator structures, covering 40 per cent of the land and costing $1,000 per room to build and $48 per room per year to maintain.

The state's 1926 PWA $23,000,000 slum clearance and low-rent housing program has progressed. Five of the projects carry expenditures of more than $30,000,000. The largest is the $12,600,000 project in Brooklyn, started more than a year ago.

Other projects are: The $4,500,000, in Buffalo, expected to be completed this summer; $4,700,000, in the West Harlem area of Manhattan, nearing completion; $1,500,000, in Schenectady, foundation work partly completed.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22. — Idol chatter: Of all Joan Crawford's collection of 10,000 phonograph records, the Bing Crosby's are most worn. Sonja Henie's ice skating thrills me the same way Paul Robeson's voice does. Candidates for prettiest legs: Evelyn Venable (but is she stingy with sight of them?) Must be tough for glamorous stars to look that way with head colds. Robert Taylor's family calls him by his real name, Arlington—but don't you dare try it!

Joseph Calleia's eyes remind me of a panther in full pelt. In need of good pictures to bolster prestige: Edward G. Robinson and Dolores Del Rio, Patsy Kelly's bedroom walls are lined with photographs, mostly unpublished, of the late Thelma Todd. Hal Roach directors are forbidden to swear on the lot because of "Our Gang" children (but kiddies are no safeguard at other studios). Lee Tracy has successfully stuck atop the water-wagon for six months of his five-year pledge.

They are calling Martha Raye "Mickey Mouth." Wini Shaw, with three children of her own, still obeys her mother unquestioningly. Peas from the pod: Andrea Leeds and Joy Hodges. Bill Robinson uses no set dance routine, so Mrs. Bill goes along to memorize steps when he teaches Shirley Temple. Bing Crosby reminds me of Little Tommy Tucker who Sang For His Supper. Spencer Tracy, after working among frozen fish for two weeks, left a cafe hurriedly when people at an adjoining table dined on Codfish balls.

Bumped into Gary Cooper at the howling alley last night. Before I met him, I talked with the proprietor who told me that a few nights previous Coop broke his high score record and in his exuberance tipped the pin boy five dollars. Not only did the boy not return to work for three days, but now, when Gary bowls, the remaining boys riot for the job of setting pins for him.

But this is not the story I started out to tell. After some hot games, Cooper and I cooled off over tall drinks, and the lanky fellow grew reminiscent. He told me of his boyhood days in Montana, and particularly of the time he and a chum swiped hard from their mothers' kitchens and used it to grease car tracks on a steep hill. He was cured of that trick when a downcoming car skidded off the tracks and crashed into a building. Luckily, nobody was hurt. "Nobody but me," Gary said. "Dad sure tanned my britches!"

He went on to tell me about the day he and his chum wanted to go hunting (Gary's stories are always preaged by a slow grin; you can see them coming). They had played hooky from school so many times they hesitated to try again. Instead, Coop went to class early and rubbed limburger cheese on the steam radiators. The result was a terrible stench. Still another result: School closed for the day and two ingenious lads went a-hunting.

SECTION TWO

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1937

PAGES THIRTEEN TO TWENTY-FOUR

JAYSEE VOTE FOR OFFICERS
AT POLLS TODAY

Politics and political campaigns will soon be forgotten on the Santa Ana Junior college campus after today, for finals in Associated Student offices were being completed this afternoon for president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer.

With Nell McDaniel, present Associated Student treasurer, leading his opponent, Bill Greshner, the campaign has had all the earmarks of a "big-time" contest. In the primaries conducted last Wednesday, McDaniel polled nearly twice as many votes as Greshner, but not enough for a majority.

Although the presidential race has taken the limelight, the fight for vice-president and treasurer, has all indications of developing into a vigorous contest. None of the three vice-presidential nominees received a majority for victory, therefore, Gordon Bishop, Dick Connell, and Fred Erdhaus must be voted upon again today.

For treasurer, Kenneth Nissley and Bob Fowler will oppose each other. Lou Ella Pierce was elected secretary on the first ballot Wednesday.

Officers of the Associated Students who have served the first semester were Vic Rowland, president; Bill Sheppard, vice-president; Betty Lee, secretary; and Nell McDaniel, treasurer. The new president will select his own executive board which consists of the Associated Student officers and six commissioners, who are chosen.

BRITISH STRESS
HOME DEFENSE OF DOMINIONS

LONDON, (UP)—Canadian and Australian soldiers may not be called upon to sail overseas for the next war.

That is the answer given in well-informed quarters of London to the statement of the Rt. Hon. William Hughes at a League Club luncheon in Melbourne that air development had so destroyed naval supremacy that it would be difficult to ship Australian troops to Europe in event of war.

Only if the mother country were directly attacked would Great Britain expect the Dominions to send troops, it is said. In event of a war in which Britain became involved by European commitments, it would not seek manpower from the Dominions.

Two Reasons Cited
The line of argument is based on two basic reasons:

1—It would be too difficult a task to convey large bodies of troops across the world in these days of planes and high speed, tying up too many warships compared with the value of the men in modern warfare.

2—The air arm has radically altered war, increasing its tempo so that the time lag between the beginning of a war and the arrival of troops from overseas would be comparatively much higher than in the last world fight.

Furthermore, the geographical line up for war in which Britain might be involved probably would show Japan on the opposite side, which would mean that Australia and Canada could do more by keeping their troops at home as a holding force to prevent any diversion campaign by the Japanese.

Home-Defense Vital
A glance of the map of the Pacific shows how essential it would be for Australia and Canada to look to their defenses and conserve their powers if Japan were fighting on the opposite side to the British Empire.

All was well in the last war, when the Anglo-Japanese Treaty existed and Japan fought with the Allies. Now there is no such treaty and a fair amount of friction between the former allies, it is pointed out. That makes it imperative that the Dominion troops should remain on the home front, unless the United Kingdom were directly attacked. Even then the time element would make it difficult for Australia to send troops. It is understood that the British government will request Dominion authorities to discourage any flow of volunteers to Britain in event of war, pointing out that all overseas man-power should be conserved for home defense.

What Britain will need from the Dominions, it is emphasized, are supplies, food and war materials, and these must be carefully conveyed at all costs. That will take enough warships out of the fighting line without considering the conveying of troop transports, observers argue.

HOME STUDY NOT HEAVY
CLEVELAND (UP)—Only 2 per cent of parents of East Technical High school students think their children have too much homework, a questionnaire showed. About 50 per cent think they don't have enough. The survey revealed the average student spends about 4 1/2 hours a day on homework.

THE ROVING
CAMERAMAN

By JOHN NEUBAUER

This is a young man's world! Both business and industry want youth. There is no longer an opportunity for the elderly. Youth must serve.

Regardless of the glamor and romance that is attached to youth conquering big business or industry, ambition alone has never been rewarded with success. Youth needs ample preparation for his task.

This is an age of specialization. The successful man or woman will have to be prepared for his special niche in life or be delegated to the WPA or whatever substitute the government will provide. During the past decade progress has been made in transportation, aeronautics, radio and almost any other endeavor mentionable.

It is true, that in many cases the field has been over-crowded with highly specialized men and the trend is to get experienced help.

On the other hand, youth is faced with the problem of breaking into this highly specialized world with only a practical knowledge without the experienced background.

In many instances large concerns are unwilling to train their help to meet these requirements, but prefer to hire capable men already qualified for the particular task, regardless of the price. Youth also faces the possibility of numerous setbacks in attaining its "place in the sun" under the new regime, which recognizes only the "cream of the crop."

The ideals of today's youth are high. This, the Register's Roving Cameraman found out.

THE QUESTION
What do you think the possibilities of youth are?

THE PLACE
College Hall, Santa Ana Junior College.

THE ANSWERS:

ARNOLD FICKLE,

North Street, Anaheim, student

"The possibilities of youth are unlimited, but it will take a fellow with a superabundance of ambition and a brilliant personality to become successful in almost any line of endeavor. Youth must attack its problem."

With a serious attitude to achieve success. I believe that honest effort and good hard work, if well guided, will be rewarded even though there may be numerous obstacles."

FRANCES WILBUR,

South Main St., Orange, student

"The possibilities of course are unlimited, but success depends largely on the individual and personal initiative. While there are more opportunities for the youth of today, there are also many more chances for him to get sidetracked and away from his goal. I believe the youth who is well prepared for his life's undertaking, whatever it may be, will prove successful."

DOROTHY RYAN,

Bush Street, Santa Ana, student

"The possibilities of youth are unlimited, but depend largely on personal initiative. Through unlimited sources of knowledge, youth today can benefit greatly by the experiences of others and profit thereby. Success, however, will depend almost altogether on the individual's ability to make most of the opportunities placed at his disposal."

PHILIP YOULD,

Riverside Drive, Santa Ana, student

"I believe that any youth can succeed, if he really puts all he has into the effort. The youth has every chance in the world to get ahead, provided he knows how to go about finding his chance. The only way I know of his finding that chance is for him to get a liberal education, and then use it."

Harvard Shows
Forest Models
Picturing Past

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., (UP)—Harvard University has completed miniature forest models, showing in scientific detail the development and cultivation of wooded areas throughout New England during the past two centuries.

It took more than five years to complete the 24 models, believed the first of their kind. Each model measures approximately 6 feet long. In the foreground and background miniature trees are painted on 4-foot semicircular metal sheets to give realistic perspective.

Some models are arranged to illustrate the more important changes in the land history of the Harvard forest region from 1790 to the present.

One portrays the virgin forest which early settlers found. Others show early land clearing in 1730. The peak of cultivation for farming in 1830, farm abandonment and the establishment of second-growth forests of white pine 20 years later, logging activities about 1910, the remaining hardwood sprouts in 1915 and finally the same hardwood as it stands today.

The trees are made of copper and the branches of fine wire. Leaves are attached to small wire twigs.

The models were made under the direction of the late Prof. R. T. Fisher, first director of the Harvard forest, and Albert C. Cline, assistant director.

FOUNTAIN PEN RETURNS FROM
TRIP TO S. F.

BY GERIE GRIFFITH

Sending personal articles away on long trips is getting to be a fad. A silver colored fountain pen returned yesterday to its owner after a 900 mile "trip."

Ten days ago, H. J. Heaney of 701 Cypress, missed his pen which he had, carried for two years. After a thorough search, he gave it up as lost. But yesterday the pen was found on the writing desk.

This fact seemed almost unexplainable until some one told the story.

Heaney is a telegraph operator at a local railway station. Last week a traveler who gave his name as Moore borrowed the pen. Accidentally, as was later proved, he carried it away with him—to San Francisco.

As it happened, Rev. O. Scott McFarland went to the distant city at the same time to attend a Presbyterian synod convention. When Moore, acclimating his probability, heard that McFarland was a Santa Ana man, he asked him to return the pen to its owner.

The secret of the safe recovery is that Heaney's name is printed on the pen.

III
A bachelor poor, a homely man,
Decided he would wed;
"A wife," he thought, "and I'll not need
To earn my daily bread."

I'll get a girl with lots of dough,
What matters income tax?
So in his search for such a prize,
He never did relax.

But his romantic hoping for
A wife was all in vain;
One look upon his ugly face
Would give the girls a pain.

And so alone he eats his grub,
In steins of beer he drowns
His sorrow, and the whole day long

He sits alone and frowns.

Bridal Couple Comes To This City To Live

Their marriage a quiet event of January 9 in Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Drysdale this week are establishing their home at 526 West Nineteenth street. The bridegroom, who is employed with the Edison company in this city, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Drysdale of Costa Mesa.

Miss Theo-Alice Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Carpenter of Beverly Hills, became the bride of Mr. Drysdale at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in Hollywood's Little Church Around the Corner, of St. Mary of the Angels Episcopal church. The Rev. Robert Redenbaugh officiated.

The bride was attired charmingly in a beige costume with a pretty corsage cluster of flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Neal Willis of this city were present for the ceremony.

Announcement of the marriage of the young couple came as a surprise to their many friends in the Southland. The new Mrs. Drysdale returned recently from an extended tour of the states, traveling in company with her brother, Charles Carpenter, Jr., of Beverly Hills. They attended the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, spent some time at West Point and visited many other points of interest throughout the east and south.

The bride had been home little more than a month when the wedding took place. A graduate of Beverly Hills High school, Mrs. Drysdale attended University of California at Los Angeles. She is a member of Hollywood and Los Angeles Athletic clubs, and of Pacific Coast club.

Old Arkansas Friends Enjoy Reunion and Luncheon

Reminiscences were very much in order Wednesday afternoon when a group of old Arkansas friends met as guests of Mrs. C. M. McCain.

The reunion was planned especially in honor of Mrs. Nettie Hirsch of Newport, Ark., whose home is now in Manila, but who is spending the winter in Southern California with her daughter, Mrs. John Mears of Los Angeles. She and Mrs. Mears were accompanied to Santa Ana for the day by the latter's house-guest, Miss Carrie Stevens of Newport, and by Mrs. Corinne House, another Angeleno, who claims Newport as her home city. Mrs. McCain entertained them at luncheon in Danigers, and included another old Newport friend, Mrs. C. S. Kendall of this city, whose home had been in Arkansas for a number of years. After luncheon all repaired to the home of their hostess at 1326 Grand avenue, for a discussion of old friendships and the many changes that passing years have brought. This reunion is to continue during the coming week when Mrs. McCain and Mrs. Kendall will go to Los Angeles for a luncheon which Mrs. Mears is giving in compliment to Mrs. Hirsch and Miss Stevens.

Fourth District P.T.A. Holds First 1937 Event

Marking the 40th anniversary of the national P.T.A. movement, members of Fourth District P.T.A. yesterday delved into possible realms of advancement during the next four decades; talked of the achievements of the past 40 years, and came down definitely to affairs of the day by adopting a resolution in opposition to football play in junior high schools.

The occasion was the first 1937 meeting of fourth district P.T.A., with more than 200 delegates assembling for an all-day program in Santa Ana High school Little Theater, Mrs. H. C. Drown, president, conducted the meeting.

Featuring the afternoon meeting was a talk by Mrs. James K. Lytle, of Los Angeles, first vice president of California Congress of Parents and Teachers. The address of the opening session was given by Irene Taylor Heineman, who hastened to Santa Ana shortly before noon to substitute for Vierling Kiersey, state superintendent of public instruction, when it was learned that he would not be able to fill the local engagement.

County Ranka High Mrs. Heineman, who is an assistant in the office of the state educator, made the prediction that Orange county will rank with the most enlightened communities in the state within ten years' time. She based this assumption on the present accomplishments of Parent-Teacher associations and the adult education department.

Quoting Kiersey, Mrs. Heineman said, "This is an era of social justice and human knowledge." She developed this theme throughout her talk on "What Parent-Teacher Means to the Schools." Changing standards and the problems they create in the schools were discussed. She pointed out that P.T.A. is aiding to work out some of these problems by creating a better understanding between teachers and parents.

Mrs. Lytle talked in her talk, Mrs. Lytle discussed "Future Work for the P.T.A.," naming world peace as a definite objective. She recommended a world peace project for "now," the very near future—and 40 years from now.

Mrs. Lytle pointed out the need for better standards in both home and school. "We are here to build, and we must live for human beings, not for things," she said.

Need for a change in general school curriculum so that students who do not go to college may become fitted for a definite life work, was mentioned by Mrs. Lytle. She spoke of the Parent-Teacher association's project to place kindergartens under state as well as county supervision, so that kindergartens will be a part of every community.

Mrs. Lytle's talk and other features of the afternoon program followed 1 o'clock luncheon. Songs, "The Musical Trust" (Clocky) by High School Boys' Glee club, and "The Green Cathedral" (Hahn) and "The Spirit Flower" by the Girls' Glee club were directed by G. R. Glick. The two clubs joined in singing "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah.

Adoption of the resolution opposing football play in junior high schools came as the last matter of business. The resolution speaks of the injuries received by adolescents competing in sports contests; of the emotional and physical strain under which boys of this age are working. News Letter No. 23, January, 1936, of the state department of education is quoted as follows: "The state department of education disapproves of introduction of American football into the junior high school program. Ample opportunity to participate in this game awaits boys in high school and college levels."

The final paragraph of the resolution states: "Be it resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the clerk of each school board, asking that serious consideration be given to the situation."

Morning Session Presentation of life memberships in P.T.A. to J. A. Cranston, Mrs. B. B. Walbridge, Dr. Mabel Geddes and Mrs. J. D. Campbell highlighted the morning session. Honors were accorded these four P.T.A. workers as well as other association members who have been prominent in work of the organization for many years. Seated on the stage with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dowds were Mesdames E. J. McReynolds, Guy Darnell, Sidney Russell, L. R. Wilson and Lynn Ostrander.

Rannunculus brightened tables where dessert was served in advance of card play. Winner was Mrs. Lynn Ostrander.

Mrs. James Anderson was a guest substituting for Mrs. Nan Dale. Members sharing the affair with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dowds were Mesdames E. J. McReynolds, Guy Darnell, Sidney Russell, L. R. Wilson and Lynn Ostrander.

Oriental Impressions Are Described For Altrusa Members

Santa Ana Altrusa club sent quite a delegation of its members to Long Beach last night when Altrusans of that city presided at a dinner in Colonial Tea room complementing the district members, Miss Rexie Bennett of the Los Angeles school system.

Motoring over from this city with the president, Mrs. Cora Prather, were the Misses Dorey Neumeyer, Mary Andrews, Mary Howard, Irene McFall, Helen Gallagher, Mrs. F. E. Moore and Mrs. Emmett Elliott. Miss Rexie Bennett, honor guest, provided the program by talking informally but most entertainingly on her experiences in China where she spent several weeks after visiting Japan as a guest of the Japanese government which was host to a selected group of prominent Southern teachers. She centered her talk on Peking and what she spent the greater part of the time, describing the street scenes, sights, sounds and odor that give it such exotic atmosphere. Illustrative of her talk were the table decorations formed from tiny figures which she had brought as souvenirs, and giving an idea of the wedding and funeral processions which form such a colorful part of Oriental life.

Next Thursday evening, Santa Ana Altrusans will be entertained at 7 o'clock dinner course and program in the home of Miss Mary Andrews, 810 South Ross street.

New Officers Are Named At Comus Dinner

Bringing to a conclusion an unusually interesting year of social events, Comus club officers last night took over the duties of dinner hosts at a gala dinner dance presented in the clubrooms of Orange Legion hall.

Officers formed an informal receiving line in the entrance foyer, at small tables, some of which, banked with ferns, were a beautiful background for the smart gowns worn by feminine members of the group. These included Mrs. Frank B. Miller, secretary, wearing apple green crepe with smart little dinner jacket of printed design; Mrs. Charles Swanner in duobonnet crepe with printed lace bodice; Mrs. Lytle Anderson, whose crisp black taffeta was accented by its crushed circle of tomato red and dancing slippers to match, and Mrs. Victor Walker in black crepe with ivory lame bodice.

New Board

Dinner tables sparkled with flowers and candles, and the dinner was one of gaiety and charm. It had as its climax, the election of a board on which Mrs. Anderson and Fred Marker were retained from the past year's board. New members named were Mrs. Riley Huber, Mrs. Wayne Harrison, Messrs. J. H. Daniger and Lester Tubbs. This group will hold a meeting Monday at which time the various offices including that of president, will be filled.

To Frank L. Andrews, Jr., retiring member of the board, was delegated the pleasant duty of presenting a gift to Dr. Hubert B. Nalle, retiring after two successful years in the presidency. The gift took the form of two handsome lamps in alabaster, to be added to furnishings of the new home which Dr. and Mrs. Nalle have under construction.

One of the business matters presented was the resignation from office of Mrs. E. B. Trago. It was with regret that Comus members accepted this resignation for Mrs. Trago has filled the post of treasurer for the past four years, and 10 years prior to that she had combined the duties of secretary and treasurer. A recent serious illness from which she is slowly convalescing, dictated her resignation.

With business matters concluded, club members turned their attention to dancing, and all seemed united today in the opinion that it was one of the most enjoyable parties of the year. Music provided by the Houston Hertz orchestra was gay and lulling, and gowns worn by feminine guests were so colorful and graceful, that the whole evening was a delight.

There were many informal parties in connection with the dinner dance itself, various members of their homes to friends gathering to attend the party in merry groups.

ENJOYABLE EVENING

Members of board of control of Santa Ana high school and their guests had dinner last night at Lucca's in Los Angeles after which they went to the Palomar for dancing.

The board of control is made up of students, officers and members of the self government committee, and includes commissioners of athletics, forensics and press. Robert E. Farrar, advisor of the group, accompanied the young people last night.

Those attending were Frank Was, president of the student body; Harold Tucker, vice president; Lorraine Sweet, secretary; Bill Hill, treasurer; Leonard Stafford, commissioner of boys' athletics; Jimmie Tucker, commissioner of forensics; Miss Alois Miller, chairman of girl's self government; Robert Cooper, chairman boy's self government; Herschel Albrecht, editor of the Generator; and their guests, Leon Lauderbach, Brye Weston, and the Misses Frances Keeton, Jean Wallace, Wanda Todd, Helen Newbold, Elmer Doyle, Alice McKee, Helen Warner.

The Mixing Bowl By ANN MEREDITH

The answer to this reader's question may interest other readers of this column. The question is:

"Could you tell me how many calories a person should have per day, when one is not active, yet wishes to reduce? I was injured several months ago and cannot get around; now I find that I have gained quite a bit of weight."

The answer to this question is simple: appetite must be satisfied by making two-thirds of all meals but breakfast, out of leafy cooked vegetables, salads and fresh fruits. Bread should appear only at breakfast, and potatoes at dinner. Thick gravies, cream soups, rich desserts, much cream should all be avoided. But-ter and salad dressings should be sparingly used. In fact, our reducing diet is the answer to this reader's problem.

Requirements per day for this case might be as low as 900 until weight is down to desired level, (the Eat and Grow Slim menu is fairly good to follow in this case, too).

Today's Recipes

Stuffed Salmon Steaks
8 thin slices of salmon
8 slices of bacon
1 cup dry bread crumbs
4 tablespoons melted fat
1 tablespoon grated onion
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
Salt and pepper
Mix bread crumbs, onion and seasoning with melted fat (butter) add just enough hot water to hold the dressing together. Place four strips of bacon in an open baking pan, put a slice of salmon over each bacon slice, cover the salmon slice with dressing and top with another slice of salmon. The extra bacon may be diced and strewn over salmon. Bake 45 minutes in a medium oven. Serve with slices of lemon and stuffed baked potatoes.

A rich pot roast or prime roast of beef are just that much better when served with a good Yorkshire pudding. And, here let me impress on you that the family must wait on the pudding, never the pudding on the family.

Yorkshire Pudding
4 eggs, beaten to a thick froth
2 cups flour sifted three times with 1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sweet milk
After the eggs have been properly beaten, alternate flour and milk in mixing these two items. Beat well for a few minutes and pour into a large shallow pan, in which some fat must be sizzling hot. Pour some of the hot fat gravy over the batter (about 1 cupful) and bake 30 to 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

The beating of the eggs is very important because the air beaten into the eggs supplies the leavening power in the pudding. The heat must not be extreme or the eggs will curdle and the pudding will fall and be tough as leather. Serve in large squares.

WORLD PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 22.—The monthly meeting of the Woman's Club of San Juan Capistrano was held in the Community church parlors this week. Following the luncheon which was served at one o'clock, Mrs. Buddy Foster, acting president, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Donald Smiley of Orange, County Chairman on International Relations. Speaking on that subject Mrs. Smiley brought to the members of the Capistrano club a clear and interesting picture of world problems of today. In closing her discussion Mrs. Smiley stressed the point that in her opinion the neutrality of the United States could only be maintained by increasing the strength of our army and navy.

Preceding the speaker on the program Marvin Maher, instructor of music in the schools, presented a pupil, Miss Bobette Goodwin in a vocal solo. He accompanied Miss Goodwin on the piano.

Following the program the regular business meeting was held. Mrs. Buddy Foster, presiding, Mrs. F. W. Rogers, corresponding secretary read a letter to the club in which the club's application for membership in the State Federation of Woman's Clubs was accepted. She also announced the District Board meeting which will be held in Redlands Friday, March 19, and the State Board meeting to be held in Coronado on May 12, 14 and 15.

The various section chairmen made their reports. Mrs. Verner C. Beck announced that the next regular meeting of the Literary section would be held at the home of Mrs. M. M. Parker at 2 o'clock, February 2. Mrs. Kenneth Haas announced that the bridge section would meet at the home of Mrs. Tom Foster on Tuesday afternoon, January 26. Mrs. F. E. Jinnett announced that the combined Home and Garden section would meet Tuesday afternoon, February 2, at her home in Dana Point, and also urged members to hand in any finished quilt blocks.

The members were pleasantly surprised upon the arrival for the afternoon meeting of two members who have been unable to attend the meetings for some time. Mrs. R. F. Cook has been unable to attend due to illness. Mrs. David Scott with her sister, Mrs. Lester of San Pedro, with whom Mrs. Scott has been making her home, motored to Capistrano to attend this meeting. Other guests of the afternoon included: Mrs. E. T. Lamb, Mrs. William Rosenbaum, and Mrs. H. Shaylor, mother of Mrs. G. C. Gillette.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. Frank Foster, Mrs. G. P. Evans, Mrs. N. Bickerton, and Mrs. Carl Hanky.

TUBBS TELLS EFFECT OF COLD WEATHER ON CROPS

TUSTIN, Jan. 22.—"The Effect of Cold Weather on the Marketing of Citrus Fruits" was discussed by D. W. Tubbs, county agricultural commissioner, at the regular dinner program of the Tustin Farm Center held this week in the cafeteria of Tustin Union high school. Lynn L. Ostrander, president, presided.

Tubbs, said, in part: "There are about 6000 orange growers in Orange and all have some frozen fruit, but we have a lot of good oranges left. The regulatory business is no fun, but your fruit will have to stand on its merits. Your packing house managers try to do the best they can with the fruit they receive. We must protect the good name of California agriculture. If we take into consideration the law of supply and demand and ship only good fruit and thereby, don't spoil the consumer's confidence, the returns received will be larger."

It was voted to adopt a resolution offered by S. M. Stanley to the effect that only good fruit should be shipped and that the local Farm Center stands back of Tubbs in enforcing the regulations in regard to the shipment of frozen fruit.

Short talks were made by W. W. Tantlinger, of the avocado department; Mrs. Frank Jones, director of the home department; Dian R. Gardner, county farm bureau president; and S. M. Stanley who gave the director's report for Frank Latham who was absent.

A one-act play, "Romance is a Racket," was presented by Eleanor Cogan, Chester Stearns, Esther Belle Christian, Shirley Phelps, Faye Holford, Lowell Dart and Noble Sellers, members of the high school drama department. Betty Lou Hannaford was student director. Community singing was led by Arthur Smith, with Mrs. Vincent Humeston at the piano. W. L. Ritter was in charge of the entertainment program.

Mrs. L. R. Stearns gave the secretary's report and Mr. Miller told about the activities of the Orange County Production on Credit association which has 135 members.

Messrs. and Mesdames C. H. Whitney, Guy H. Christian, John Dunstun, Charles Philippi, Paul Ethold, Frank Jones, B. Flint, Fred L. Wilson and W. W. Tantlinger were in charge of arrangements for the pot-luck turkey dinner enjoyed by approximately 125 persons preceding the program.

The hostess served refreshments of birthday cake, pineapple dessert, cookies and coffee.

Those present were Mesdames Sarah May Matthews, Cora Lee, J. C. Rogers, H. J. Egginton, A. A. Alderman, William O'Hara, Fred Silver, George Furtch, J. W. Doughty, John Pieper, Nannie Myers, C. Holsten, Mollie Smith and the Messrs. Audrey Pieper and Ethel Alderman.

GREEN DEFINES LAWS OF TITLES TO REAL ESTATE

Intricacies of the laws of succession of titles to real property, the peculiar effects of California law on joint tenancy, and the devolution of property through which a property passes once it is under jurisdiction of probate court, all were stressed today by Albert G. Green, title officer of the Security Title company, in the main address before the Santa Ana Realty board in regular noon session at the Rossmore cafe.

The meeting was called to order by Earl B. Hawks, and Oliver Lindemeyer, secretary, was unanimously instructed to write formal protest of the local organization against a new policy of the federal land bank of Berkeley. The bank, a bulletin said, had decided to suspend payment of commissions to realtors for sale of any of its property, and instead, handle it through its own staff.

Beginning with the history of the right of ownership of real property, Green covered an unusually wide field. He touched on the general laws of succession of titles to property in his speech on "What Happens to California Real Estate When Its Owner Dies."

He explained the fact that the succession is not a natural right in California, but a statutory right; how property is administered in probate court in event of a deceased person dying intestate, and how a will is executed in the event such a document provides for the transfer of titles to real property.

He outlined procedures of the creation of probate homesteads; the law of community property; the kinds of sales, private and at public auction; the actions in law in which an executor or an administrator may become involved; the distribution of property by the court; appraisals, and the payment of inheritance and other taxes.

All members of the board were urged to attend the district meeting of the realtors at 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday at the Green Cat cafe, when the group will be addressed by Gene Dayton, president of the state association.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 22.—(UP)—The mystery of how Mrs. Anita Beilho, 21, came to her death in a frozen creek near Mills college campus, remained unsolved today. An autopsy failed to disclose cause of death, and police were uncertain whether the young mother was beaten and left to die in sub-freezing weather, or had fallen accidentally, knocking herself unconscious.

Police meanwhile held James F. Williams, 42, for further questioning. Williams admitted he took Mrs. Beilho out the night of her death. He said they had been drinking near the spot where she died. She got out of the car, threatening to walk home, and disappeared, he told police.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Joseph Curran, leader of the rank-and-file seamen's strike, said today that last night's vote here to terminate the strike would have no bearing on the west coast maritime situation.

The vote, he said, was to end the walkout in Atlantic and Gulf ports, subject to ratification of the decision by strike organizations in other ports affected and subject to approval of west coast unions. Although the eastern strike, if other ports agree, would end next Monday, the west coast walkout, Isthmian City and El Paso, Texas, would not be affected, he said.

FLEECE FLIES AS REALISTS HIT TRADITION

BY F. C. M. JAHN
United Press Staff Correspondent

VIENNA (UP)—The Quest of the Golden Fleece was just a minor gold rush, accompanied by the customary bloodshed, modern research workers emphasize.

Thus radiance is brushed from the butterfly wings, the glamour of fairy gardens withers, and the golden fruits of the Hesperides become worm-eaten apples under the searchlight of science.

The men who weigh facts would unmask Jason as an impostor, the Argonauts as a gang of greedy brigands, and the enchantress Medea as a female Rasputin.

Jason's marvelous adventures, the conquest of the petticoat regime on Lemnos, his bout—the first recorded in history—against the Jack Dempsey of pre-Homeric days, King Amycus; the clashing rocks; the fire-breathing, brazen hoofed bulls; the sowing of dragons' teeth and his victory over the armored men as well as the entire trip in the "Argo" across the smiling blue Aegean and the gloomy Black Sea to distant Colchis on the steep flanks of cloud-covered Caucasus were pure fiction, science says.

Jason Called Raider

In the light of modern investigation it appears that Jason, a poor princeling at King Peleus' uncle's court in Iolcus, Thessaly, after hearing from an itinerant beggar or poet—then as now the designations were almost synonymous—about a gold-bearing river far to the north, brought together a company of ne'er-do-wells and with them set out on a predatory incursion into the gold region.

It is conceivable that he qualified his enterprise as a mission to bestow the blessings of Iolcus' culture upon the poor unenlightened Balkan savages.

He bought a suitable flat-bottomed boat, painted the name "Argo" on it, sailed across the bay of Salonica to the mouth of the Vardar, and then the craft was rowed and towed to the river's headwaters where a small tributary contained the golden treasures.

Gold Caught in Wool

The local population in those days exploited the river by placing sheepskins, weighted with stones, into the water, so that gold grains and nuggets would be caught in the thick wool.

Hence the idea of the Golden Fleece, say the research men.

Jason, in a minstrel's disguise, had gone ahead of his companions and made love to the local chieftain's buxom daughter, Medea, at her cave door. She offered but little resistance to the persuasive, handsome young prince from Greece who promised her not only his heart but also his hand and a brilliant future as Queen of Iolcus.

From her Jason obtained useful information about the place and the habits of the population.

Then one night pirates fell upon the peaceful gold-washers, killed most of them, whereupon, "Jason & Co. Ltd." gold-sifting enterprise, was established on the spot.

Had No Sentimentality

But science hastens to say: Don't blame Medea, who witnessed and perhaps even lent a hand in putting her own people to the sword, for lack of sentimentality, because sentimentality was absent from the character of the ancients.

With Medea as his bride, as had been agreed, Jason returned to his Thessalian home.

That she should have killed and dismembered her small brother Absyrtus en route and strewn his limbs all over the sea to cause her pursuing father to halt and provide a funeral for his favorite son is, of course, an absurd product of Jason's fertile imagination, it is pointed out.

If asked why Jason wracked his mind to invent all these adventures, the answer, modern research students say, is simple enough:

Because, planning to obtain the throne for himself, Jason knew that, more than his newly acquired wealth, the glory of fabulous achievements would impress the popular mind in his favor.

Because he wanted to deter and put upon the wrong scent possible competitors for the gold treasures.

Because he needed prestige for his bride who was, it must be recalled, little more than a cave lassie, whereas as a princess—enchanted from the mysterious Caucasus mountains, even the greatest court snobs would be inclined to overlook the lack of manners.

Likened To Rasputin

Like the unkempt Siberian peasant, Rasputin, who healed the Russian crown prince's wounds by what seemed a miraculous cure when doctors were helpless, Medea possessed knowledge of strange medical practices.

She obtained great fame by performing the first recorded blood transfusion upon Jason's aged father, Prince Aeson. As an early precursor of Voronoff and Steinhach, she restored the old man to youth.

Next she thought of expediting her husband's rise to the throne.

The daughters of old King Peleus, naturally eager to see their aged father likewise rejuvenated, jumped at Medea's offer also to operate upon the monarch.

She started to bleed the old man, as she had done with Aeson, but then conveniently forgot to refill her second patient's veins. To the grief of the princesses, Peleus remained dead, and Jason became king. Once firmly established upon the throne, he thought, anticipating the idea of the Venetian shopkeepers' administration, Medea has done her duty, Medea can go.

So he turned Medea adrift so that he might obtain the hand of the slender and beautiful Princess-Royal Creusa of Corinth who contrasted in every feature to the buxom backwood girl, to whom he owed his throne.

Took Diabolical Revenge

The rest is known: how Medea took a terrible revenge upon her rival by sending Creusa a stylish garment, dyed in a poison which caused cruel death to the princess; how she slew the children she had borne to Jason, and how she finally departed for Athens in a vehicle drawn by serpents.

The Golden Fleece later inspired the most exclusive decoration which German, Austrian and Spanish rulers could bestow upon their followers.

The noblest of noblemen today proudly wear the little golden sheepskin insignia which owes its origin to the foregoing adventures, which research students believe they have debunked for all time.

KING'S BURDENS WORRY BRITISH

LONDON, (UP)—Lightening of the heavy burden of official duties borne by British kings, is being urged in many quarters.

The burden, it is known, has been intensified many times over since the World War and still further augmented by the statute of Westminster fixing Dominion status and the Imperial Conference resolutions.

According to the Constitution, Dominion prime ministers communicate directly with the king. This in itself means that the king must have a special secretariat to deal with communications from overseas. At the same time his duties in the home country have increased. The United Kingdom government and parliament have placed Dominion affairs generally out of their own range, and thus lightened their duties.

Dominions Affairs Heavy

Having to handle Dominion problems and perform multifarious duties at home, from signing commissions to receiving foreign diplomats, is becoming a physically impossible burden for one man. The problem now is to rationalize the work of the monarch.

Nowadays the king has five prime ministers—United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa—advising him in direct communication.

King George VI came to the throne with even less family assistance than his two predecessors. King George V had four sons to help him in his public duties, especially by attending important public functions. King Edward VIII had the assistance of three brothers, but King George VI has only two brothers to lighten the burden of duties.

May Tour Empire

Former King Edward decided to make a tour of the empire, and if King George VI decides, as expected, to make this tour so that his subjects shall not be disappointed, the situation will be further complicated. Then there will have to be a Council of State upon which no British minister could serve because of a decision taken after the life of the Council of State formed during the illness of King George V.

The presence of United Kingdom ministers on that council excited Dominion jealousy, and it subsequently was decided to refrain from such London appointments in the future.

As it is to be expected that Queen Elizabeth would accompany King George on his empire tour, much of the burden of state affairs in London would again devolve upon Queen Mary.

The Iroquois Confederacy of Indians is said to have originated in the 15th century.

GOLD OUTPUT UP FOR AUSTRALIA WORD AMERICA COINED IN 1507

CANBERRA (UP)—Largely due to the Commonwealth's allocation of $2,500,000, to be spent over three years ending in 1938, to stimulate gold prospecting and mining, gold production in Australia was increased by about $12,500,000 in a year.

That is revealed by the Metalliferous Mining Conference, consisting of state ministers for mines and other state and commonwealth officials, at a meeting in Canberra. The technical committee of the conference also reported that the scheme had led directly to the absorption of 6,850 unemployed in various states, and added that there was every reason to believe that the increased production would continue during the next few years as the discoveries which are being made are explored and developed.

The ultimate aim is to treble Australia's present gold output and bring it to the level of Canada's 3,000,000 ounces.

Already important finds of gold and other valuable metals are reported from Queensland and Tasmania, while Victoria reports "a definite gold revival."

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Jan. 22.—Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Sorenson were recent dinner guests in the home of C. C. Schultz of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Florence Emmett of Humansville, Mo., has been a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ralph and other relatives in Orange for the past several weeks. Mrs. Emmett is a sister of Mr. Ralph.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Goulden (Ruby Armstrong) who were married January 6 have been spending a few days in the home of Mrs. Goulden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Armstrong. The young couple returned from a honeymoon trip to Boulder Dam about a week ago. They will leave the latter part of the week for their home in Alturas.

Miss Bulah Ingie and Gordon Moser of San Diego were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Moore on Santiago Boulevard.

Mrs. Paul Gibson and little son, Robert Allen, are getting along nicely at the family home on Pearl street. They came home a few days ago from the Santa Ana Valley hospital where the baby was born.

Mrs. Lee Barnett of East Chapman avenue had the pleasure of entertaining former Kansas friends, Mrs. Hattie Leonard of Topeka and Mrs. P. J. Galle of McPherson, Kan.

Ray Schaffert of Spokane, Wash., is expected to arrive today for a few days visit with relatives and friends in this community.

A group of friends of three local students of the Orange high school attended a voice and piano recital held at the high school Monday evening. Billie Brieke and Joe Montoya gave vocal numbers and Sue Conway piano selections.

PARIS (UP)—Although America was born, historically speaking, in 1492, it was not named and christened until 15 years later at Saint Die, a small and attractive French town in the Vosges district.

The "baptismal certificate" is still there as well as the "baptismal font" where this historical christening took place. The "baptismal certificate" consists of a map upon which the newly discovered continent was designated for the first time as "America," by Martin Waldseemüller, one of the cartographers, and the "baptismal font" is the building, still standing, where those cartographers of four centuries ago labored. The word "America" first was set in type by Bazin, a local printer.

It was at Saint Die that a small group of scholars carried on their researches and made eager use of the new art of printing. In an introduction of an edition of the "Cosmography of Ptolemy" in which was included an account of the journeys of Amerigo Vesputi, it was suggested that the name "America" be given to this newly discovered continent.

The cloisters where these scholars lived still stand, and in the heart of the city is a building to which tablet has been affixed identifying it as the house where the book was printed and the name first placed in type. There, too, the map was made. The house of Bazin which still stands a monument to the internationality of the group collaborating in extending world horizons.

A movement has been started to purchase the house of Bazin and transform it into an American shrine. The idea has been warmly received in the United States.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

"OLD HICKORY"

ANDREW JACKSON made his men fear and worship him. So tough was he that they called him "Old Hickory." Swiftly and mercilessly he had conquered the Creek Indians in Georgia and Alabama. Then, in 1814, he became commander of the defending American army at New Orleans. Jackson had fewer than 8000 men. Attacking him were 20,000 trained British soldiers and a large naval squadron. Jackson entrenched himself behind strong fortification in the swamp land outside New Orleans. The British were routed, their general killed, 2000 of their forces were slain. Jackson lost only 71 men.

That victory at New Orleans, and Jackson's later campaigns in Florida against the Seminole Indians, won him such popularity that he was elected president in 1828. He retired in 1837, and died in 1845, at the age of 78.

The new two-cent army stamp portrays the general, alongside Gen. Winfield Scott.

were cutting hay one sultry August morning in 1880 near Bigheart, Okla. A band of Osage Indians rode up. Their leader explained that they wanted Gifford's scalp, offering 20 ponies as payment.

Gifford demurred. The chief explained that they had not taken a legitimate scalp in battle in several years and that the one which they used in their dances and ceremonies had been lost or stolen.

Gifford refused to sell the top of his head. Regrettably, but forcefully, the Osages overpowered him and took the scalp, anyway, leaving the 20 ponies as proof of their earnest desire to make it a peaceful bargain.

Wimberly nursed Gifford to recovery, crediting his own escape to the fact that he was bed-haired. Osages were never known to take the scalp of a red-haired man.

 being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

SOME NEW SHRUBS

The two months just ahead are the best months in the year for planting shrubs. If you have a new garden we hope it is ready for shrub planting at this time. The bushes will establish themselves and move forward with the spring. And if you have an old garden, well filled though it may be with many pleasing shrubs look about and see if you cannot find room to tuck in one more, if only a little one.

Shrubs are such a comfort in the garden. Most of them will flourish happily in ordinary garden soil, given a sunny position. Some will accommodate themselves to shady or half-shady positions. There's really a shrub for every place in the garden. Indeed, one might plant an entire garden with shrubs alone and if selected and placed with proper care it would be both complete and satisfying, and would require a minimum of effort to keep in condition.

There are shrubs tall enough to fill the need of small trees; other shrubs of prostrate habit excellent for ground covers; and an abundance of shrubs of intermediate size. You may choose foliage of feathery delicacy, foliage lustrous and shining, foliage thick and velvety. The leaves may be tiny, of threadlike slenderness, or large and striking in shape. The flowers may be of many sizes, many colors and many forms, and bloom found in all months of the year. Today we will mention a few of the newcomers among the shrubs. Holmskioldia sanguinea, you have perhaps seen, or maybe sprays of it at some flower show. If so, I am sure your first thought was that it must be some kind of bougainvillea. The flower bracts do not have the blood-red color the name suggests, at least not in our country, though they may in their native India. They are more of a brick red, and are produced nearly all the year round. The foliage is evergreen, the growth somewhat straggling. The bush gets eight feet high, like a warm sunny position with plenty of water. The sprays make most attractive decorative arrangements and keep well. This shrub has the entertaining common name of "Chinese hat plant." It's botanical name honors a Danish scientist of a century and a half ago.

Europeria athenaeae is another unusual shrub. It grows to about eight feet tall, rather awkward in its growth, so don't give it too conspicuous a foreground position. But put it where the big, yellow, daisy-like flowers which give it the name of "South African daisy tree" can show to advantage. The bush has skeleton foliage, blooms in midwinter, the 2-inch flowers on 12-inch stems. Sun for this shrub, too, which comes from Africa. Its name signifies "large eyes." You will understand why when you see the big yellow flowers cheerfully looking you in the face.

A very fine shrub, vigorous rooted and long lived, which should give satisfaction in any garden, is Chalcas exotica, the "orange jessamine." It makes a rather dense shrub, eight to 10 feet tall in time, glossy green jessamine-like leaves and clusters of small white flowers not unlike orange blossoms in shape and with an intense and delicious perfume. And it has little red fruits, said to taste something like kumquats. The name "Chalcas" is from the Greek for "copper," referring to the color of wood. It blooms in the spring and summer, and is a truly handsome shrub.

A small shrub which blooms in midwinter and through the spring is the "yellow flax," Reynoldsia indica. It is related to the flax family. This particular little shrub grows from two to four feet high, with nice foliage and quantities of pretty yellow flowers, an inch and a half across. It will grow in sun or slight shade. I like it very much and think you would.

Aster fruticosus, some of you have grown, no doubt. A fine little evergreen shrub (up to three feet) which for a few months, starting about April, is covered with lovely rosy-lavender single aster-flowers an inch and a half across. The flowers resemble the Michaelmas daisies in form, and make a beautiful mass of color. "Fruticosus" means shrubby or bushy, distinguishing this little bush from the more familiar members of the aster family.

Aster filifolius elongatus (all of which signifies that the bush has long, threadlike leaves) is still newer, but is said to be equally fine as fruticosus, and has blue flowers instead of mauve. These are two pleasing little shrubs which will keep modestly to the space you allow them, and rightly merit it by their abundant and colorful bloom.

A yellow-flowered shrub for spring blooming which has the common name of "Canary Island lupin" (to save us the necessity of always calling it "adenocarpus foliolosus") has large spikes of golden yellow lupin-like blooms, borne profusely. It is evergreen, grows three to four feet high, and its branches are thickly covered with the tiniest green leaves. That's where it gets the "foliolosus" part of its name, which means leafy, or full of leaves. And the "adenocarpus" refers to the "glandular" shape of the fruit.

If you're fond of the Buddleias, you will like B. alternifolia, called the "fountain buddleia," because of its drooping sprays of bloom. The blossoms are so closely set that the stems are entirely hidden. The flowers are lilac-purple in color and very sweet scented. It is hardy, should be planted in full sun, may drop its leaves in mid-winter, and should not be pruned. This last item is important to remember, especially as we are accustomed to cutting severely the buddleia we call "summer lilac."

And, by the way, there's a splendid tall buddleia, B. salivifolia, which should be more used. It keeps its foliage, blooms in winter, lovely panicles of pale mauve flowers, very fragrant, eight feet tall (B. alternifolia is not quite so tall, around six feet). Plenty of water. You'll never be sorry if you plant this fine shrub.

And, again by the way, there is a buddleia I haven't noticed in catalogues lately, but which you should plant somewhere in the background of your garden if you want your whole garden smelling of freesias long before freesias bloom. B. asiatica, a large growing erect shrub, long branches, willow-like leaves. Gets way up to ten feet or more high, is not so very ornamental as a bush, and the sprays of tiny white flowers have no real beauty. But it blooms in winter and its fragrance is heavenly.

Everybody knows that old standby in Southern California plantings, the "Australian tea tree." Leptospermum laevigatum, a large, spreading shrub with graceful, arching branches, which makes almost a small tree, growing up to 15 feet tall. A relative of lower growth, five feet, but seldom seen is L. scoparium rubra, which has pretty little red flowers and makes a handsome shrub.

Then there is one still smaller, a dainty little shrub only about three feet high, which has soft little leaves; evergreen, so that the shrub is always attractive. And in the spring the branches burst forth with the prettiest little double pink flowers, like little roses. Lovely for cutting. Easy to grow. Like the other leptospermum it likes the sun and not too much water. You will love it. It's name is leptospermum scoparium flore pleno.

One of the best of our familiar garden shrubs is the abelia. A. grandiflora is the one commonly seen. It grows five to six feet tall, and is what I call a neat shrub, trim in its form, with gracefully arching branches, shiny little bronzy green leaves and tiny flowers which give the whole bush a flush of rosy white. This is an excellent abelia and has served us so well that one hesitates to say there are better ones. I am reminded of when, as children, my sister and I each had a pet kitten. Hers was prettier than mine, but I would never let anyone say so in my cat's presence, and if by chance she overheard such a remark, I took my kitten aside and fairly smothered her with petting.

So I am thankful abelia grandiflora is nowhere about while I say that there are other abelias of superior charm. A. Schumannii, a somewhat smaller bush, has much larger and brighter colored flowers. A. triflora, the "Indian abelia," on the other hand, is taller, up to 10 feet, blooming at the ends of the branches in flower clusters of exceedingly sweet fragrance. And A. floribunda, from Mexico, only about four feet tall, has the pretty abelia foliage, with pendent tubular flowers of a rosy lilac color. A handsome little shrub, a bit more particular about growing conditions than its kin. Give it lots of leaf mold and plenty of water. Don't overlook these shrubs, you can't go wrong with an abelia.

ANCIENT WORKS SEEN IN MOUND

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — A group of archeologists under the direction of Fred Carder Jr., are digging deeper in an old mound near Spina where the workers recently found 40 conch shells arranged in unique design. The shells, apparently carried overland to Oklahoma, were decorated and rested on top of an old burial ground. They were arranged in a three-foot square. Inside the square were six large shells with the ends points out in star fashion.

"We found them only a few feet under the surface, indicating that they were a decoration on a burial mound," Carder said. "The design is odd, but resembles the art of the Aztecs."

The archeologists believed the shells indicative of a burial ceremony in which the shells were placed as a part of a ritual on the resting place of a dead chief.

Carder believes the Oklahoma mound builders are related to the tribe which built mounds in Ohio that have become well known. Apparently, it was said, the mound builders preceded the Indians.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

Legislators of the state of California are urged to be extremely cautious this year in the consideration of newly proposed bills. They are especially asked to look with critical gaze upon measures that present another method of spending tax money.

Both matters are mentioned in an editorial in the January issue of The Tax Digest, publication of the California Taxpayers' association. We heartily agree with the exhortations, and will take the liberty to offer an additional suggestion.

It is quite possible that the legislator performs his duty only to the extent required of him by his constituent. This argument is based on the theory that the citizen needs the legislator to represent him, and the legislator needs the citizen to be prepared to give him intelligent advice on occasion. It is our own theory, though we do not claim it is original. We think it has its merits because it fits in with the prime need of our system of government—fine cooperation between the voter and the man who received the most votes.

Therefore, every citizen owes it to his legislator not only to watch him, but to observe him in a constructive frame of mind, and to help him. Each bill as it comes along, under ordinary circumstances, is discussed in public print. It is through a close scrutiny of that discussion that a citizen and a voter may tell what he thinks might be the effect of the proposed legislation. If he thinks it is bad, he should not take the "don't care" attitude. If he does, he is as much to blame as the legislator who gives his "yea" to the proposition. If, on the other hand, the layman thinks the legislation has its virtues, he should say so.

Frequently, it is only by this process that the "boys at home" get proper representation. And the process does have its advantages. For instance, if a large group of representative citizens favors a certain piece of legislation, and voices itself accordingly, giving the legislator a good share of the verbal ammunition to use on the assembly floor, it has a good chance of seeing its favorite bill become a law.

When such support is offered, and accepted to its fullest extent, the legislator cannot be blamed. If it is not accepted by the assemblyman for use in a fight, then it is apparent that the people have done their part, but that there is something wrong with the representation.

The whole point is, that there always should be a close alliance between the man at home and the man at Sacramento. Think it over. We think it will pay.

BOULEVARD STOPS

We must recognize the tragic death of Henry A. Mitchell Jr., 21-year-old Garden Grove youth, in a highway traffic accident Thursday night, as news, and at the same time point out the good record of Orange county traffic for 1937, to date.

With one death recorded to date, the record has to be good, for at the same time in 1935 and 1936, seven traffic deaths had occurred. One is almost inclined to believe that human life is as "cheap" now as it was in the days before we considered ourselves "civilized." Else why all of this traffic tragedy?

But just now, we would urge, particularly, more safety-mindedness on the part of motorists regarding the jumping of boulevard stop signs. Capt. H. C. Meehan, of the Orange county unit of California Highway Patrol, or any other peace officer of this county (or any county), will tell you that boulevard stop violations cause more traffic accidents than either drunk driving or speeding. According to Bryan Jones, Garden Grove, driver of the car involved in the collision with young Mitchell's car, Mitchell failed to make a boulevard stop. On August 31, last year, four men died in traffic as the result of boulevard-stop jumping. We could point out many, many more such deaths for 1936 or 1935.

Let's never overlook the seriousness of the offense of boulevard-stop jumping. Many judges of this county have done so in treating boulevard-stop jumping as a minor offense; in instances, the fine for the offense amounts to $1 or $2. Is there any wonder many motorists fail to consider boulevard-stop jumping as a serious infraction of the law?

ERROR OF IMMATURE JUDGMENT

Reputation and integrity of many men have been unjustly attacked, and sometimes irreparably damaged, through untimely criticism, unripe judgment and, in its lowest form, gossip.

The grave mistake of thoughtless and careless talk has been brought home again this week with the expression of the theory that vast deposits of uranium—a radium-filled ore—may have been the cause of both recent airplane disasters near Los Angeles.

Whether this is true or not, is quite beside the point. The point is that too many persons were too eager and too willing to blame the pilot or some other person, without once weighing the possibility that concrete and irrefutable evidence might prove them entirely wrong. Why millions of Americans daily heap uncalculated and palpably unfair censure on their fellow man is one of the great mysteries of human nature.

Why not always show a great willingness and persistency to believe firmly in the basic theory of American justice—that a man is innocent until proven guilty? But it seems there always is a mad scramble to see which one of us might throw the first stone! That being the case, we should not feel greatly offended when and if the finger of suspicion points in our direction.

The theory that the ore deposits might have been the real reason for the crashes, in that it may have deranged wireless communication aboard both doomed transport planes, came from Charles Stanley, of Alhambra. Investigators now are checking this surprising theory, which, after all, may be absolutely correct.

If it is, then we feel, as the result of our own observation, that a lot of sincere mental apologies are due pilots or officials.

"POWDER KEG" STYLES CHANGE

Even homely objects, like "powder kegs," appear to be susceptible to the modern trends of diplomacy and statesmanship. If any. The powder keg that exploded on June 28, 1914, hurled fire and brimstone, death and destruction around the world. This particular keg consisted of the assassination at Sarajevo, Bosnia, of Archduke Francis, of Austria, and his wife. A month later, Austria declared war on Serbia, and the biggest piece of death-dealing villainy in the history of mankind was born.

We have a well-grounded suspicion that powder kegs of today, and perhaps of the future, will be of more subtle character. We have this attitude because history has proved that greedy rulers and ruthless dictators are usually intelligent enough to realize the importance of changing the scenes to intrigue their peoples, distort the public gaze, and bolster public support.

And so it is today that word comes to us in a United Press dispatch that Italy and Germany are ready to throw thousands of fresh troops into Spain's rebel armies unless soviet Russia abandons her asserted plot to communize Spain.

The 1914 catastrophe was made spectacular by blatant declarations of war. It is likely that declarations of war now have become old-fashioned, and that Europe overnight will become embroiled in a worse war than that of more than two decades ago. In short, the modern "powder keg" doubtless will be a quick and silent sabre thrust that will cause untold bloodshed in the absence of a declaration of war.

And what has Spain to expect from outside intervention? Absolutely nothing! It will be either a communist, or fascist state. In the words of Dr. Everett Dean Martin, either kind of state means continued stifling of liberalism, or, literally, the choice of living in one or another prison—a place where there can be no enlightenment or progress.

We cannot believe that the struggle will be ended in Europe with the end of the present conflict in Spain. We should like to do so, but it is apparent that the sabers are rattling louder with the passing of each day. How long will it be until this new type of powder keg blasts its disgraceful and annihilating path through the causes of humanity?

WANT RELAXATION?

Much has been said and written about the tired business man. Perhaps most of it has been in jocular vein, but nevertheless we know it is a fact that any business or professional man who puts his energy, mental and physical, in his work all day long, is more than glad to find something to relieve tense nerves and muscles when he goes home each night.

It has been published as a fact many times that even Presidents of the United States read "easy-reading" detective stories for relaxation.

Well, perhaps it isn't just exactly what readers of The Register might call good taste to blow one's own horn, but we have what we think is a good recommendation along this line. It simply is a suggestion to one and all to get busy on The Register's new feature, "Poetic Puzzles." It's nothing heavy, but it really is interesting and a lot of fun.

We are proud, too, of the fact that it is the product of the pen of one of our advertising staff, Allen M. Papurt. Everybody knows, or should have a pretty good idea, that classified ads in The Register get results. And who knows, you may run across just the ad you've been looking for, when you are enjoying "Poetic Puzzles."

WATCH YOUR BICYCLE

Records of the Santa Ana police department show that 25 more bicycles were stolen from Santa Ana in 1936 than in 1935. That means but one thing—bicycle owners here are becoming more careless. Perhaps not, but the statistics indicate it. In 1936, 147 bicycles were stolen here; 122, in 1935.

We merely suggest that bicycle owners use more care in parking their bicycles, whether at the theater, school or home. Not only will a little more care help those who own bicycles but it will cut down the work of the police department in checking up on bicycle losses, many of which need not occur. Use more care when you park your bicycle.

"To think freely, the individual must in a sense, become disinterested even with regard to matters that concern him vitally. He must be able to endure freedom of thought."—Everett Dean Martin.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

PASS KEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Most of the politicians around President Roosevelt marked his inaugural off as another very good round-up speech. They privately called it a "rehash," saw nothing new in it of significance.

His literary cronies and social intimates knew different. The carefully chosen language did not pass above their heads. To them, it was the fourth and final chapter of Mr. Roosevelt's social philosophy, exposed more completely than ever before, the pass key to the next four years.

Their personal tip to all students of Roosevelt and government was to piece together his four speeches made in the last 15 days: his message to congress; his budget; his government reorganization program, and his inaugural. To those who do so, no surprises will come in the next four years.

In one brief sentence, their conception of the now complete Roosevelt working theory is this: Create a permanent federal government, at least as big as it is now, but stronger, with increasing executive power to administer social justice; a seven billion dollar government, the basic principle of which is to suppress the wicked, take away from those who have, give not only to those who have not, but "to those who have little."

NOTE—You will get far more out of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches than out of the conflicting interpretations always handed out by his associates. His speeches maintain a consistency which is lost to public view in the fog of side-line interpretations from friends trying to pull him one way or another.

REVELATIONS
The administration was inwardly perturbed about congressional consideration of the bill extending the president's devaluation power and the stabilization fund. The plan by which it was rushed through congress in three hours was carefully cooked up in advance. Inside orders were issued for the Democrats to keep quiet and avoid debate. There was no doubt about the bill passing, but the administration wanted as little attention paid to it as possible.

Even so, two of the deepest secrets of government leaked out. One was that the two billion dollar fund shows a profit to date of probably several million dollars. This, however, is not enough to cover what it costs the treasury in interest to keep the two billions from debt retirement. The second secret disclosed was that only one-tenth of the fund has been set aside for use and only part of this $200,000,000 has actually been used.

The biggest hidden significance of the bill, however, lay in the length of the time extension—2½ years. It means the administration expects no currency stabilization this year, probably not next year.

YOUTHFUL MARKSMEN BUSY
CARTHAGE, Mo. (UP)—Target practice on street lamps by youthful marksmen who received air rifles for Christmas has cost the city $50 a day. A special plea has been made to parents to co-operate in stopping the destruction.

HUNTER CATCHES QUAIL
SALEM, Mo. (UP)—While quail hunting Clarence Inman's dog pointed a single bird. While the dog was holding the point, Inman stepped up from behind and caught the quail alive just a few inches from the dog's nose.

GUN FAILS BUT NOT ARROW
HARTFORD CITY, Ind. (UP)—Hubert Schisler is of the old school. Failing to get any game with a shotgun on a recent hunt, he returned home, armed himself with a bow and arrow, and soon bagged a rabbit.

If I did tell you you'd properly just say it was another example of a woman and her secret being soon parted, but dont worry, I have no intention of telling you, she said.

Pop keeping on not answering, and ma said, Well any goodnes, Willyum, aren't you even the slightest bit curious for land sakes?

Say, I thawt this was supposed to be a surprise, pop said, and ma said, And so it is, but after all that's no excuse for a callous lack of intrist on your part. Really, Willyum, I mean really, after I spend 20 good minnits at a certain nameless counter in a crowded department store to choose an unexpected present for you I think the least I can expect is a faint token of appreciation in the form of a slite spark of intrist, she said.

Yec gods and dizzy pinwheels, if you want me to know what it is, go ahead and spill the beans, pop said, and ma said, O no you dont, you dont catch me that easily, you think you're a sly one but you dont see me falling into your trap, hee hee. You can try to guess if you want, but it wont do you a bit of good because it's nothing simple and hackneyed, for instants it has nothing to do with smoking, I'll give you that much of a hint. But you're only waiting your time guessing, she said.

Horse blankit to blazes I'm not guessing, I'm not even reeding my paper, much as I'd like to, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum Potts just for that mean remark I'll tell you it's a little wooden tub of imported shaving cream and spoil your whole surprise.

And she started to do the crossword puzzle with a expression as if revenge was sweet.

SCHOOL VALUES

Going to school and passing tests, even being graduated, are not education in themselves. A student can get by without being a whit the better for all his time in school. His body can be passed through the grades and leave his mind, the source of all his power, untouched save on the surface where surface values dwell.

To get any value out of study the mind must be engaged. The student must have given his mind to his school work, centered his life about school concerns, worked out his problems in the spirit of co-operation with the teachers and leaders who offered their assistance. That is all that any teacher or leader can do—offer his assistance. He cannot take the student's mind and force it to accept and use the experiences that the school stands ready to present. The mind is the servant of the student and him alone.

When a student cuts classes, copies notes, buys work from other students, skips lectures to attend social gatherings, puts off study until a few days or hours before tests, he might better be at work in some field that forced his mind to action. He might have a chance to develop some power there. He has none whatever in pursuing his course as a gay and careless floater. His body is in the building, but his mind is not in the school. Mind and school must be associated before any education can take hold.

"But I have a diploma," one of them said to the head of the concern for which he had been working. "I am supposed to know what I am doing. I went through school, and got my diploma."

"Yes, but you didn't put any value in that diploma as far as I can see. It is a bit of paper that says you performed certain exercises, but judging from your work I would say they were purely surface things that never engaged your attention, never got under your skin. Your mind is not trained to work, that's all. You never got the values out of the rules and the facts you learned. They are not a part of you, and you don't know how to use them. They don't mean a thing to you. You were absent from them when you got them. Now you've got to begin all over again and put value and meaning into what you study."

A diploma may mean only that a student made some motions. Or it may mean that the student put his whole weight on the subjects he studied, brought his undivided mind to bear upon them, took all the values he could put into them and take out again, and so educated himself a little. A diploma ought to mean that a student has learned the value of experiment, study and hard work in search of truth, and ought to mean a self-discipline and a self-direction toward further study and better work. It is not an end in itself, but a record of opportunity. The student puts value into it himself or it has none. A successful student has to be present in mind as well as body.

A DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

If, in any reorganization of the executive direction of the federal government, we are to have a department of public works, it is important now to clarify our minds on the role of public works in a nation committed to an economy of private enterprise.

I dealt with the problem of public works at length in this column during the darker days of the depression, and what I said then has quite an urgent pertinence now.

I have never believed that major public works afforded the quickest and most effective means of absorbing the unemployed in an economic emergency.

But, in the modern economic scene with its seemingly unavoidable ups and downs, I am convinced that public works must be part of any statesmanlike national policy.

And, as I have said before, three principles are vital in the effective administration of public works in an economy of private enterprise.

First, they must be timed rightly. Public works should be timed to begin after enough basic readjustments have been made so that the boom in employment and production which the public works induce can and will be picked up and carried on uninterruptedly by private enterprise. Meanwhile emergency needs can better be met by projects less major in nature.

Second, they must be big enough to count.

A half-hearted and niggardly venture in public works is a waste of the people's resources. And a public works program should, if there is need for it at all, be big enough to register a definite and decisive effect upon the nation's buying power.

Third, they must be executed with promptness and dispatch. Public works undertaken for their own sake and value, without preference to business stimulus, may be executed slowly, but public works that are to hasten economic advance must be crowded into a time short enough to prevent a futile thinning out of their effect.

These three principles seem so simple and elementary that one wonders why they have been so generally ignored in all the public works ventures since 1932.

They must be made central to any permanent policy for public works.

HERE AND THERE

When rats overran Sable Island, Nova Scotia, cats were imported. They killed off the rats and began on rabbits. Foxes, introduced to fight the cats, not only killed all the cats, but the birds, as well, and the people appealed to the government to exterminate the foxes.

It is mathematically possible for a pair of rabbits to have 30,000 descendants within two years.

The Smithsonian Institution annually receives approximately $1,044,692 from the government and $140,000 from private endowment.

Schizophrenia, a mental disease, fills one-fifth of all the hospital beds in the United States and costs $1,000,000 daily to treat.
